Industrial bonds okayed

BLOOMFIELD — The City Council Thursday night approved $700,000 worth of industrial revenue bonds for Lowe's Incorporated, a kitty litter plant building north of town, and discussed several problems with property owners in the city.

The bonds are part of a $2,600,000 bond issue which was approved by voters on Feb. 6, 1975. The first $1 million worth of bonds were issued Sept. 1, 1975.

The council does not know when these bonds will be issued. They are handled by an out-of-town law firm specializing in bonds.

In a related action, the board learned that the Ozark Regional Commission has approved funds to build a bridge on Route Y, leading to the clay plant.

Cost of the bridge is not known. The ORC allowed up to $28,000 for the project. Cost to the city is not yet known.

A theme repeated at City Council meetings recently is that the city does not have much money to operate on. It was repeated again Thursday night when a request for blacktopping was made.

Bill Bishop requested that Smith Street in the Smith Addition be blacktopped. The city blacktopped the street last year at the request of the citizens on the street and at their expense but it was an inferior job.

"It'll be one of the first streets we do," Alderman Bill Cowgur promised.

"It'll probably be the only street we blacktop this year," Mayor Glen Ayers added.

Marvin Smith, a land developer who is building Lick Creek estates, asked the city to lay water lines in his subdivision.

This was the second time the matter was brought up. At a meeting in May, Frank Sifford, who is developing the subdivision with Smith, made a similar request.

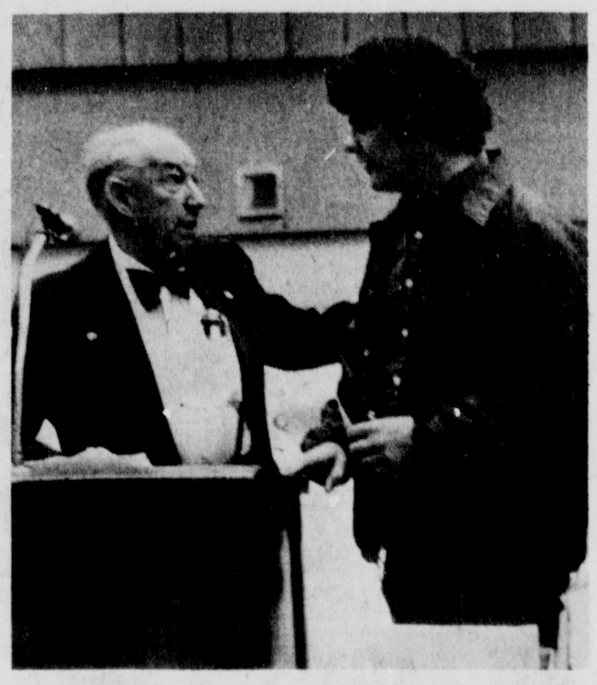

At that time, Ayers explained that the city could not pay the cost of developing private subdivisions.

"Land has never paid any taxes to the city," Ayers said. "To develop it is to use tax-

June 22 set for health center vote

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Court Thursday set June 22 as the tentative date for an election to decide the fate of a countywide health center.

The court made the decision after a group of four persons headed by Bernie Mayor R. B. Woods presented petitions containing an estimated 1,256 signatures, requesting the election.

County clerk John Marvin Capps said only 905 signatures are legally required to call for the election.

The petitions must still be checked by Capps' office to determine the validity of the signatures and whether or not the signers are registered voters.

The committee agreed to furnish election officials, who will work without pay. The only cost to the county will be to print ballots.

The election will determine whether or not to approve a maximum 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax levy to support the project. A two-thirds majority is required for passage.

If the proposal is approved by voters, five persons will then have to be elected to serve as trustees to oversee and administer the program.

The county presently has a temporary health center funded by the state. In November, 1974, the state allowed $29,000 to fund the center for two years.

This November, funding will run out.

Among the functions of the health center would be to offer blood pressure clinics, immunizations, a family planning program, nutritional programs, home visits and venereal disease programs.

This is not the first attempt by supporters of a health center to seek approval from county voters for the proposal.

In 1960 a special election was held and voters defeated the proposal by almost 300 votes; 918 voted in favor and 1,196 against.

Another election was held in 1968 in conjunction with general elections in November and the proposal was again defeated.

If a health center is approved, the county court will have no jurisdiction over it.

The five-man board of trustees will decide where to build the building to house the facility and to establish guidelines for its operation.

The tax levy will be determined by the five- member board.

The 10 cent levy is a maximum but could be less if the board decides to operate on a lower rate.

Escapee sentenced to 7 years

BENTON — Wayne Lee Harris, one of two prisoners who escaped from the Scott County jail last month and led state and local authorities on a chase covering a period of several days, pleaded guilty Thursday in Scott County circuit Court to two counts of burglary and stealing and one count of feloniously breaking custody.

Judge Marshall Craig accepted Harris's guilty plea and, on the recommendation of Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore, sentenced Harris to five years on each of the burglary and stealing counts, with the sentences to run concurrently. He also sentenced Harris to two years for the jailbreak, with that sentence to run consecutively to the five-year sentences.

In other cases:

Robert Thomas Heard pleaded guilty to a armed robbery in connection with the robbery of Bakers Finer Foods in Scott City. Upon Moore's recommendation, Judge Craig sentenced Heard to three years in custody of the state Department of Corrections.

William Hounihan of Gordonville, charged with armed robbery of the Scott City Shell service station, case passed to May 27.

Bruce Cochran, burglary and stealing in connection with a Feb. 15 break-in at a house in Illmo, pleaded guilty and sentenced to three years for burglary and two years for stealing, with the sentences to run concurrently. Cochran is free on bond, pending the judge's decision on an oral application for probation entered after sentencing. June 17 has been set for arguments on that question.

Larry Michael Miller, burglary and stealing in connection with a March 28 break-in at a shoe store in Illmo, pleaded guilty and sentenced to three years on the burglary charge and two years for stealing, with the sentences to run concurrently. An oral application was entered by Miller's attorney for probation, with June 17 set to hear arguments.

Bloomfield chief of police resigns

BLOOMFIELD — Chief of police Byron Phillips, a member of the police force for about six years, submitted his resignation Thursday night after members of the city council had complained he was "sleeping on the job."

The council accepted the resignation in a closed meeting and has not hired a replacement for Phillips.

Mayor Glen Ayers said this morning that there were no hard feelings and that there had been no pressure put on Phillips to resign.

The complaint against Phillips was issued during a meeting April 22 and was brought up by new council member Sonny McRoy.

Phillips was in attendance at Thursday night's public meeting, but declined to comment during the open portion of the meeting.

"I had headlines like I was guilty of a felony of some sort," he said, referring to a Daily Standard story concerning the May meeting.

After the public meeting Thursday night he appeared hurt but did not comment on the validity of the charges.

"I apoligize for the whole thing happening," Ayers told Phillips, but neither he nor the council members would discuss the problem with the reporter present.

At the May meeting the council authorized Jim Hall and Bill Cowgur, members of the police committee, to talk with Phillips, who was on vacation at the time.

However it was reported Thursday night that this was the first official meeting with the police chief.

Phillips waited in a room next to the council room for almost three hours until the public portion of the meeting could be taken care of. During the closed meeting, four applicants for the job were discussed. The council will probably interview the candidates next week.

The acting chief now is Charles Jarrell, an officer on the force.

The closed meeting lasted about 45 minutes.

Band concert Sunday

The Sikeston High School early division band, directed by Pat Curry, will present its annual spring concert Sunday at 2:00 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

The 70-member band will open the concert with a John Philip Sousa march, "New Mexico March". Sousa, known as the "March King", has published over 200 marches. "New Mexico March", one of the few Sousa marches that is little known, was written for the admission of New Mexico to the union. It contains both Spanish and American Indian elements.

"Declaration Overture", by Claude Thomas Smith, will also be performed. This piece is an original band work, having just been copyrighted this year. Smith is a Missouri band director from Chillicothe.

A descriptive overture of the Wild Wind River area of Colorado, written by Jared Spears, who is professor of music in composition and percussion at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro, is also scheduled. Spears was guest clinician at the recent Division 3 spring concert festival held in Sikeston.

"An Irish Suite for Band", in three movements by Charles Richard Spinney, contains "As I Roved Out", "The Rising of the Moon" and "Johnny, I Hardly Knew You". "As I Roved Out" is one of many Irish folk songs which have dealt with the old and popular theme of disillusioned love.

"The Rising of the Moon" came out of one of the many Irish rebellions, this one in 1798. The rebellion failed and its defeated leader committed suicide while in prison. In spite of the outcome, the rebellion of 1798 was well remembered by the Irish, and 60 years later John Keegan Casey was moved to write "The Rising of the Moon".

The third movement may come as a surprise, as the melody of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" originally told the tragic story of an Irish boy returning broken and disfigured from some long forgotten war.

"A Festival Prelude", composed by Alfred Reed, was written for the 25th anniversary of the Tri-State Music Festival in Enid, Okla. This piece was premiered by the Phillips University concert band and has come to be regarded as one of Reed's most brilliant and powerful works for the modern symphonic band.

A chorale - prelude based on the familiar George Warren hymn of 1896, "God of Our Fathers", by Claude T. Smith, will be followed by "Selections from Chicago VIII".

Tatgenhorst, a famous composer and arranger for the modern concert band, has arranged "Chicago VIII" as a medley which contains "Anyway You Want", "Harry Truman", "Long Time, No See", "Never Been in Love Before" and "Old Days".

Houchin announces candidacy

John Houchin

Houchin has been a member of the Sikeston City Council since April 1974. He is also a member of the Sikeston Planning and Zoning Commission.

He has been a businessman for 21 years and is owner of Houchin's Do-Nut Drive In, 417 W. Malone Ave. He is also engaged in the real estate business.

Houchin is an active member of Wesley United Methodist Church and serves on the church board.

He and his wife Faye have two children, Tammy and Teresa.

Houchin said he plans to continue providing the public with good service in the assessor's office and making improvements wherever possible. He said he wants to extend the same courtesy and service in office he has given to the public in his 21 years in business.

Armed bandits rob Quick Shop

Two young men armed with rifles took an undetermined amount of cash from the Quick Shop on North Main Street about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, according to police.

Police said that about 11:30 p.m. two clerks walked into the front of the store from the back and found two young men pointing rifles at them. Both men were wearing ski masks.

The robbers told the clerks to give them the money from the cash register. They then fled south on foot.

The clerks said both robbers appeared to be about 16 or 17 years old.

Final human issues forum set Tuesday

The meeting will be open to anyone, but the voting delegates are those elected earlier by county conventions throughout the district.

State council meets here

Members of the State Advisory Council on Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities met at the Ramada Inn, Highway 62 East, Wednesday and Thursday for a monthly business meeting. The group also toured Delmo Project facilities near Circle City and saw a youth project near Lilbourn. The projects take individuals out of institutions when cases permit and place them in foster homes, which, according to council officials, is a great savings to taxpayers and beneficial to the individual. Attending the meeting, from left, are B. Jane Garrett of Kansas City, member; Mary Perez, St. Louis, member; Joyce Weber, Dexter, member; Mildred Marks, Sikeston, member; Merrill Sindt, Jefferson City, member; William L. Nancy, Albany, Mo., vice chairman; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Elmer H. Behrmann, St. Louis, chairman; Dr. C. UNCLE SAM GROWS FATTER

Is there a family in the country that wouldn't scream if it came home from a weekend trip to find it had been robbed of $2,000? Unbeknown to most families, that's how much they're losing every year. The culprit doesn't wear a mask; he wears a beard and top hat. His weapons are a myriad of federal regulations. And his name, of course, is Uncle sam.

"The magnitude of the federal regulatory apparatus is staggering," writes Idaho Congressman George Hansen in a recent newsletter to his constituents. "Just in the area of the standard independent regulatory agencies, the number has doubled in the past 10 years to 24. There are now more than 63,000 federal bureaucrats with regulatory functions in these agencies. A Library of Congress study indicated that in 1974, while Congress was passing 404 laws, the federal bureaucracy was churning out 7,496 regulations!

Hansen, a Republican, continues: "The Office of Management and budget — the Executive Branch's bookkeeper — estimates that regulations cost $130 billion a year, or $2,000 per family, in artifically inflated prices, additional costs to consumers, and lost productivity.

"For example, there are more than 5,146 different government forms which are required to be filed by businesses at a total annual estimated cost of $40 billion. Some of the regulations even go so far as to stifle competition and create monopolies. For instance, the Interstate Commerce Commission prohibits competition by prescribing routes carriers may travel, commodities they may carry, and the size and conditions of loading."

Two other agencies singled out by the Idahoan as being both in conflict with the Bill of Rights and "doing violence to the small businesses and smal towns of the nation" are the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. The Congressman also indicts the Consumer Product Safety Commission — two of whose "memorable" reports were on how to strike book matches and how to get into and out of bathtubs.

Hansen recently launched a national effort to alert citizens as to their legal rights when confronted with Big Brotherism in violation of such Constitutional guarantees as trial by jury and no illegal search and seizure. He also makes a good case for a bill before Congress called the Regulatory Reform Act of 1976. The bill would require the President to submit reorganization plans for these agencies at specified times during the next four years — plans that would make the agencies leaner, less oppressive, less duplicative, and less costly.

"These are just some of the much needed steps we can take to bring this monster under control," he argues persuasively. "We will have to do it if democratic government is to survive."

UNEQUAL EXPECTANCY

They may feel "unequal" in other ways, but women have no kick coming in the Life expectancy department.

Today's woman of 45 can look forward to another 33.9 years of life, says the Institute of Life Insurance. This is a new high. Just 25 years ago, average life expectancy for women that age was 30.6 years.

Far more dramatic is the change since the century began. In 1900, a baby girl could expect to live to age 48, while a baby boy had a life expectancy of 46 years.

The difference has since then widened eight years, still in favor of women. A female born in 1974 had a life expectancy of 75.9 years, as contrasted with 68.2 years for males.

Medical advances have been responsible for gains in both female and male life expectancy, but one of the most significant factors in improving female longevity has been the reduction of deaths occuring during childbirth, says the Institute.

In 1974, there were 14.6 deaths of mothers for every 100,000 live births. In the early part of the century, the maternal mortality rate was 727.9 per 100,000 live births.

"I'll be over in a few minutes," said the doctor. "Meanwhile, try waving a piece of cheese in front of her mouth and maybe the mouse will come out."

When the doctor reached the Schultz apartment, he found Mr. Schultz in his shirt sleeves waving a six-pound flounder frantically in front of the prostate Mrs. Schultz's face.

"What's the idea?" said the exasperated doctor. "I told you to wave a piece of cheese. Mice don't like flounders."

"I know, I know," gasped Mr. Schultz, "but we've got to get the cat out first."

WHY THE CONTROVERSY OVER PROPOSED FEDERAL DAY-CARE?

There is nothing new about organized day care–it has existed in this country since the 1800s. What the current debate is about is how much the Federal Government should get involved in the business–and whether greater federal involvement won't be at the expense of the private day-care operations in the country.

There are three ways in which the Federal Government could get involved. One would be for the Federal Government to provide a tax break for the parent who may have to send his child to a day care center in order to go to work himself. A second would be for the Federal Government to provide money to existing day-care centers. A third would be for the Federal Government to get into the day care center business itself, and this is where the controversial Child and Family Service Act (CFSA), sponsored by Sen. Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) and Rep. John Brademas (D.-Ind.), comes in. It has aroused opposition from those who fear that it will be the opening wedge of further government interference in the way Americans have traditionally brought up their children. Those who are fighting the bill have seen how federal monies in other areas have led to tightened federal controls.

Obviously there are many working mothers with children (but that is another story about why). In 1960, 18.6 per cent of all married women with children under six who lived with their husbands had jobs. In 1974 the figure was 34.4 per cent. Among widows and divorcees and women not living with their husbands, the figure was 54 per cent. (There are also numerous households with a single male parent.) In all, about six million children of pre school age in 1974 had working mothers. But licensed day-care facilities can accomodate only a million of them. Where have the other five million been? Playing the street? Surely, the argument has gone, there is a demonstrable need for more federal support for licensed centers. But there are alternatives to federal intervention, such as building more local centers, or even persuading mothers to stay home and look after their children. In fact, most of the other five million children are receiving family or neighborhood-centered care, which most working mothers in all income brackets seem to prefer.

But it is not the preference of the AFL-CIO or the National Federation of Teachers. They favor the Mondale-Brademas CFSA, which would finance day care, with "prime sponsors" designated by the Federal Government. To be sure, they favor it with a difference: they want the "prime sponsors" to be the schools.

Actually, the Mondale-Brademas bill is very similar to one vetoed by President Nixon in 1971. Former HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger said that bill would be impossible to administer because it involved thousands of prime sponsors, would duplicate existing programs, and would be very expensive. The Mondale-Brademas bill would authorize first-year spending of $150 million, second-year spending of $700 million. And in the third year: $1 billion.

How much control would parents maintain over their children in CFSA centers? Lots, claim the bill's supporters. No child would be subjected to experimentation without the knowledge of the parent, who can exempt the child if he or she chooses. But how much easier it would have been to provide for no experiments without prior consent. And that's not all. The wording of the bill is ambiguous as to what in fact is considered to be the parent. According to the statute, a parent is "any person who has primary day-to-day responsibility for any child"–a definition that could seem to include the day-care-center woman and possibly even exclude the "real"--non-statutory--parent.

The CFSA is suspect for other reasons, too. As we see it, the Child and Family Services Act is a concept that would get the Federal Government right into the middle of child rearing, with rules and regulations and approved methods for this and that. It would push bureaucratic entanglements down to the six-year-old level and younger--which, on second thought, may be exactly where they belong.

ACTION ON THE HEARNES CASE

An investigation by the U.S. attorney's office here of Warren E. Hearnes, former governor of Missouri, has been underway for about three years. An indictment has not been returned.

The Internal Revenue Service, which joined in the investigation for a time, said recently it has dropped its criminal investigation of Hearnes but that a civil probe continues.

In the last few days Bert Hurn, U.S. attorney, disclosed his investigation of Hearnes is not yet concluded. He made this disclosure after being pressed by Hearnes to publicly state that the investigation was over and no wrong doing had been found.

Hearnes can hardly be blamed for trying to force the issue. Three years is a long time to live under the cloud of a continuing, well-publicized inquiry.

Hurn and other authorities cannot be faulted for pursuing an investigation if, as must be assumed, they think they can uncover evidence with which to indict Hearnes. It is their duty to scrutinize when they suspect illegal acts. Still, it is unfortunate that the matter cannot be cleared up more quickly, one way or another.

Hearnes is a lawyer by profession. Currently he is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate in the primary next August. The circumstances of this investigation make it difficult to pursue either of these interests in a very satisfactory manner.

The general public has ample reason for concern in this case. For if this type of investigation can be conducted of Hearnes, it can happen to anyone else.

Regardless of the outcome, one conclusion seems obvious: Whether Hearnes is indictable or not, the U.S. attorney's office has taken much too long in finding out.

THE IMPORTANCE OF REGISTERING TO VOTE

The importance of registering and voting was forcibly brought home in the recent school levy election at Paris to those who hadn't done so, were in favor of the levy, yet couldn't or didn't vote.

The final score on the yes and no votes showed that a change of 23 votes, or the addition of 45 votes would have carried the levy.

There have been elections in Monroe County in which one to ten more votes would have won for someone or some issue.

That's how important it is for all of us to register, and for all of us to vote in every election.

HARMONIOUS BLEND NEEDED

Americans have long been lured to the great forests covering vast areas of their nation. Whether as campers, hunters, hikers, fishermen or nature lovers, they could be assured at least one sanctuary from the pressures of life.

However, since the passage of the Wilderness Act in 1964, some 10.7 million acres of federal land have been withdrawn as Wilderness areas from multiple-use management. According to the National Forest Products Association, the federal government now owns 96.9 per cent of the land in Alaska alone. The disturbing trend toward sealing off large chunks of forest land from use for all but a few backpacing individuals is unfortunate indeed.

The rising demand for wood products and recreation areas must be met–at a time when land is at a premium due to worldwide population growth. There must be a blend of wildlife and recreational use in keeping with the timely harvesting of commercial timberlands. The rejection of multiple-use land management, at this point, would set into motion adverse economic reverberations the likes of which this country has seldom experienced.

When a man asked the doctor to perform a vasectomy on him, the physician, in accordance with established medical practice, asked if he had discussed the operation and its implications with his wife and family. "Yes," replied the man. "I'm sort of lukewarm about it myself, but my wife persuaded me to put it to a vote with the children."

"And what was the result?" asked the doctor.

"The kids favored it, nine to four."

PRICE TAG OF CRIME AGAINST BUSINESS RUNS INTO BILLIONS

Burglary, robbery, vandalism, shoplifting, employe theft, bad checks, credit card fraud and arson cost U.S. business an estimated $19.1 billion in 1975 and the cost of preventive measures was an additional $4.5 billion.

The 1975 figure from the U.S. Department of Commerce includes $6.5 billion for crimes in the retail sector, $3.2 billion in the manufacturing sector, $2.4 billion for wholesaling, $4.3 billion for the service sector, $2.3 billion for transportation and $0.4 billion for arson.

The total 1975 figure of $23.6 billion amounts to about 15 per cent of corporate profits.

The estimate for the total cost of crimes against business and of preventive measures in 1974 was $20.3 billion.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Report Terrorists Have Heat-Seeking U.S. Missiles
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— The weapons we poured into South Vietnam may now be turned against us. It is known that abandoned U.S. arms have fallen into the hands of world-wide terrorists.

Terror groups have been able to get everything from handguns to recoilless rifles, all spanking new, from Vietnam. The most dangerous are shoulder-fired Redeye missiles, which can knock aircraft out of the air or destroy them on the runway.

The U.S. Customs Service has quietly alerted police across the country to be on the lookout for terrorists with Vietnam War weapons.

"Redeye missiles are available for sale to terrorist groups," Customs has warned. "The compactness of these missiles poses a problem to Customs officers attempting to stop the illegal import of arms and explosives."

Not only do the heat-seeking Redeye missiles demolish aircraft by literally zooming up their tailpipes, but they can also be sued against motor vehicles and factories.

Intelligence sources have traced the shipment of U.S.-made arms from Vietnam to Libya whose reckless leader, Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, has become the terrorists' chief supplier.

The Customs alert is the first solid evidence, however, that the captured U.S. arms may now be coming back to haunt us. Warns Customs: "The sophistication of terrorist groups has increased ... Modern military weapons are being used regularly."

SOVIET BENEFITS: The State Dept. is upset because the Soviet Union once again has gotten the best of the United States in a commercial deal.

In a letter stamped "Confidential," Deputy Secretary Charles Robinson has complained to the Civil Aeronautics Board that the Soviets are raking in most of the benefits from the flight agreements between the two countries.

Pan American Airlines' share of the business has dropped form 60 to a meager 27 per cent, while the Soviet Aeroflot's share has shot up from 40 to 73 per cent.

Wrote Robinson bluntly: "The Department believes that it is essential, from a foreign policy viewpoint and overall U.S. national interests, that our agreements with the Soviet Union produce an equitable balance of benefits.

"The current US-USSR Civil Air Transport Agreement, while balanced in concept, has resulted in significantly greater economic benefits for the Soviet Union than for the United States. Some improvements have been achieved, but this imbalance has not been satisfactorily resolved."

Robinson urged a "revenue pooling agreement to redress the imbalance." Our sources say the Soviets are amenable to revenue pooling if they are permitted to operate more flights to the United States than Pan Am is granted to Russia.

Footnote: A CAB spokesman said the board had rejected a draft agreement between Pan Am and Aeroflot because it was unfavorable to Pan Am.

URANIUM WINDFALL: The Ford Administration is pushing legislation which would give three companies the right virtually to dictate uranium enrichment prices. The move could cost potential users of nuclear energy a staggering $1 billion over a five-year period.

At present, prices are determined independently by the government. But under the legislation that the Administration wants, an industrial troika would be able to set the prices.

The lead firm in the deal is the Bechtel Corp., which hired President Ford's Health, Edcation and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger and ex-President Nixon's Treasury Secretary George Shultz. The other two companies are Goodyear Tire and Rubber and the William Co.

SHOOTING IN YEMEN: Our associate, Joe Spear, reports from North Yemen that bomb explosions and random shootings occur every night in this remote but strategic country at the tip of the Arabian peninsula.

"No one is sure," writes Spear, "whether the violence is instigated by tribal Arabs who want to return North Yemen to a sheikhdom or Arab revolutionaries with close ties to the Soviet Union."

But there is evidence that the Soviets, operating from South Yemen across the border, are trying to infiltrate the media and organize secret Communist cells in North Yemen.

EXPROPRIATED ELEVATOR: Some congressmen have been flattered into believing that the process of election has somehow lifted them above other Americans and has made them more worthy and less subject to reproach than the people who elect them.

At one House elevator bank, for example, two out of three elevators are reserved for members during roll call. The tourists are obliged to crowd aboard the third.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D.-Fla., found both reserved elevators in use when he showed up. He barged through the crowd, commandeered the public elevator, held the tourists back with his hands and rode up to the House floor in lone splendor.

"This happens occasionally," he explained to us, when congressmen are in a hurry to make a vote.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Kennedy Combine Strategy:
Labor Chiefs mocked by Carter, but see themselves forced to support him

WASHINGTON— Once more labor's nationally powerful political leaders are groaning under the weight of their computerized campaign machinery which is pulsating but apparently has no more place to go than it did in '72 -- because in the words of the one man in the best position to say so, labor "is really in a state of confusion. We're in a hell of a spot."

Why? Because "we in labor have decided there is no question that Carter has a first ballot victory. Very decisive ... easily a majority ... with an iron grip ... long before the convention."

And "there is no doubt in my mind we will take him (Carter) over a Ford. There is no change in our position, though Carter is a new face."

Taking Jimmy Carter will be the price the national labor leadership says it's willing to pay to "rid the White House of the Republicans." Point is just what strategy to use. There's little doubt that the way-out frontrunner has little personal use for either the veteran AFL-CIO chief, George Meany, or the latter's continent-hopping Committee on Political Education director, Al Barkan.

And the sentiment is mutual. Most national AFL-CIO chiefs see the Georgian as a conservative promising all things to all races and creeds.

But they had guessed wrong. Their strategy (and that of the so-called labor Clearing House Coalition) of attempting to win as many delegates as possible to the national Democratic convention without concentrating on one candidate and then coalescing, caucusing and finally pressuring the conclave into nominating their ticket, failed as it did in 1972.

And Carter hasn't hesitated to rub their political noses in the brackish refuse of desolate losers' campaign headquarters.

The ex-governor of Georgia reverted to the jargon he used when in office in Atlanta. Again he has been jeering at the "labor bosses." He said the union members wouldn't be "led by their noses."

He scorned conferring with Meany, saying he hadn't thought of "getting together" with the AFL-CIO chief of chiefs or with Barkan. Carter is the only Democratic candidate who hasn't gone up to the "Eighth Floor" to confer with labor's elder statesman.

Usually that's politically fatal. But Carter is thriving and enjoying himself. He knows he has them where he wants them – either him (Carter) or Jerry Ford or Ronnie Reagan. Further he believes he can continue heaving his rhetoric over the labor chiefs' heads especially because he has strong support in the Kennedy camp.

Ted Kennedy already has virtually endorsed him. Further, it can be reported that last summer Carter flew into New York to talk with the Kennedyian writer-historian-attorney Ted Sorensen. They discussed political philosophy, and national and foreign policies.

Sorensen tells me he soon felt that "Carter is the one candidate who could provide the country with new leadership and could beat the field." They met again, sometimes with Carter's aides. Sorensen, believing Carter to be as qualified as such "other one-term governors as Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and Adlai Stevenson," ran a fundraising dinner for the Georgian and began working with the candidate's foreign policy an economic task forces.

There just isn't any doubt of the Carter-Kennedy alliance. In addition to a string of other old Kennedy teammates, Dean Rusk, Jack Kennedy's Secretary of State, endorsed Carter on May 2.

Carter offers the nation "a chance for a fresh start somewhat in the spirit of John F. Kennedy," said Rusk.

Thus it's logical to reason that slowly the Kennedy people will unleash their endorsement of Carter at strategic moments. If all this isn't orchestrated, the baton is still to be invented.

This will lead to a supercharged endorsement by United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, long an intimate of the Kennedys. All of which puts Meany and his massive federation in an awkward position. Carter just isn't Meany's man for any season. Meany is issue-oriented. Carter isn't. Meany wants loyalty to the "movement." Carter is thumbing his nose. Meany and his colleagues want someone they know personally in the White House- that's the channel to cabinet appointments.

Carter gives no signal he'll listen. Or that he won't appoint men whose philosophical hearts belong to Kennedy and Woodcock, a close collaborator with Europe's Socialist leaders. All of which is distasteful to Meany.

Further, at least four influential union leaders have said in the past few days that it would take little indeed for them either to go neutral for Jerry Ford or to endorse him outright as they did Dick Nixon in '72.

In effect they're saying they know what they have "in Jerry Ford, economic adviser Bill Seidman and the current cabinet members." They're not certain what they'd get from Carter--except a handshake.

They say they'd rather have a "nice guy" than an unknown "cold guy." And that accounts for the consternation and confusion on top.

Industrial bonds okayed

BLOOMFIELD — The City Council Thursday night approved $700,000 worth of industrial revenue bonds for Lowe's Incorporated, a kitty litter plant building north of town, and discussed several problems with property owners in the city.

The bonds are part of a $2,600,000 bond issue which was approved by voters on Feb. 6, 1975. The first $1 million worth of bonds were issued Sept. 1, 1975.

The council does not know when these bonds will be issued. They are handled by an out-of-town law firm specializing in bonds.

In a related action, the board learned that the Ozark Regional Commission has approved funds to build a bridge on Route Y, leading to the clay plant.

Cost of the bridge is not known. The ORC allowed up to $28,000 for the project. Cost to the city is not yet known.

A theme repeated at City Council meetings recently is that the city does not have much money to operate on. It was repeated again Thursday night when a request for blacktopping was made.

Bill Bishop requested that Smith Street in the Smith Addition be blacktopped. The city blacktopped the street last year at the request of the citizens on the street and at their expense but it was an inferior job.

"It'll be one of the first streets we do," Alderman Bill Cowgur promised.

"It'll probably be the only street we blacktop this year," Mayor Glen Ayers added.

Marvin Smith, a land developer who is building Lick Creek estates, asked the city to lay water lines in his subdivision.

This was the second time the matter was brought up. At a meeting in May, Frank Sifford, who is developing the subdivision with Smith, made a similar request.

At that time, Ayers explained that the city could not pay the cost of developing private subdivisions.

"Land has never paid any taxes to the city," Ayers said. "To develop it is to use tax-

June 22 set for health center vote

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Court Thursday set June 22 as the tentative date for an election to decide the fate of a countywide health center.

The court made the decision after a group of four persons headed by Bernie Mayor R. B. Woods presented petitions containing an estimated 1,256 signatures, requesting the election.

County clerk John Marvin Capps said only 905 signatures are legally required to call for the election.

The petitions must still be checked by Capps' office to determine the validity of the signatures and whether or not the signers are registered voters.

The committee agreed to furnish election officials, who will work without pay. The only cost to the county will be to print ballots.

The election will determine whether or not to approve a maximum 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax levy to support the project. A two-thirds majority is required for passage.

If the proposal is approved by voters, five persons will then have to be elected to serve as trustees to oversee and administer the program.

The county presently has a temporary health center funded by the state. In November, 1974, the state allowed $29,000 to fund the center for two years.

This November, funding will run out.

Among the functions of the health center would be to offer blood pressure clinics, immunizations, a family planning program, nutritional programs, home visits and venereal disease programs.

This is not the first attempt by supporters of a health center to seek approval from county voters for the proposal.

In 1960 a special election was held and voters defeated the proposal by almost 300 votes; 918 voted in favor and 1,198 against.

Another election was held in 1968 in conjunction with general elections in November and the proposal was again defeated.

If a health center is approved, the county court will have no jurisdiction over it.

The five-man board of trustees will decide where to build the building to house the facility and to establish guidelines for its operation.

The tax levy will be determined by the five- member board.

The 10 cent levy is a maximum but could be less if the board decides to operate on a lower rate.

Escapee sentenced to 7 years

BENTON — Wayne Lee Harris, one of two prisoners who escaped from the Scott County jail last month and led state and local authorities on a chase covering a period of several days, pleaded guilty Thursday in Scott County circuit Court to two counts of burglary and stealing and one count of feloniously breaking custody.

Judge Marshall Craig accepted Harris's guilty plea and, on the recommendation of Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore, sentenced Harris to five years on each of the burglary and stealing counts, with the sentences to run concurrently. He also sentenced Harris to two years for the jailbreak, with that sentence to run consecutively to the five-year sentences.

In other cases:

Robert Thomas Heard pleaded guilty to a armed robbery in connection with the robbery of Bakers Finer Foods in Scott City. Upon Moore's recommendation, Judge Craig sentenced Heard to three years in custody of the state Department of Corrections.

William Hounihan of Gordonville, charged with armed robbery of the Scott City Shell service station, case passed to May 27.

Bruce Cochran, burglary and stealing in connection with a Feb. 15 break-in at a house in Illmo, pleaded guilty and sentenced to three years for burglary and two years for stealing, with the sentences to run concurrently. Cochran is free on bond, pending the judge's decision on an oral application for probation entered after sentencing. June 17 has been set for arguments on that question.

Larry Michael Miller, burglary and stealing in connection with a March 28 break-in at a shoe store in Illmo, pleaded guilty and sentenced to three years on the burglary charge and two years for stealing, with the sentences to run concurrently. An oral application was entered by Miller's attorney for probation, with June 17 set to hear arguments.

Band concert Sunday

The Sikeston High School early division band, directed by Pat Curry, will present its annual spring concert Sunday at 2:00 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

The 70-member band will open the concert with a John Philip Sousa march, "New Mexico March". Sousa, known as the "March King", has published over 200 marches. "New Mexico March", one of the few Sousa marches that is little known, was written for the admission of New Mexico to the union. It contains both Spanish and American Indian elements.

"Declaration Overture", by Claude Thomas Smith, will also be performed. This piece is an original band work, having just been copyrighted this year. Smith is a Missouri band director from Chillicothe.

A descriptive overture of the Wild Wind River area of Colorado, written by Jared Spears, who is professor of music in composition and percussion at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro, is also scheduled. Spears was guest clinician at the recent Division 3 spring concert festival held in Sikeston.

"An Irish Suite for Band", in three movements by Charles Richard Spinney, contains "As I Roved Out", "The Rising of the Moon" and "Johnny, I Hardly Knew You". "As I Roved Out" is one of many Irish folk songs which have dealt with the old and popular theme of disillusioned love.

"The Rising of the Moon" came out of one of the many Irish rebellions, this one in 1798. The rebellion failed and its defeated leader committed suicide while in prison. In spite of the outcome, the rebellion of 1798 was well remembered by the Irish, and 60 years later John Keegan Casey was moved to write "The Rising of the Moon".

The third movement may come as a surprise, as the melody of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" originally told the tragic story of an Irish boy returning broken and disfigured from some long forgotten war.

"A Festival Prelude", composed by Alfred Reed, was written for the 25th anniversary of the Tri-State Music Festival in Enid, Okla. This piece was premiered by the Phillips University concert band and has come to be regarded as one of Reed's most brilliant and powerful works for the modern symphonic band.

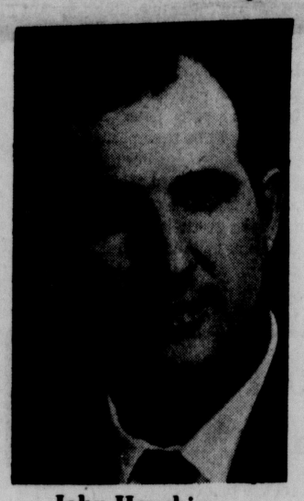

A chorale - prelude based on the familiar George Warren hymn of 1896, "God of Our Fathers", by Claude T. Smith, will be followed by "Selections from Chicago VIII".

Tatgenhorst, a famous composer and arranger for the modern concert band, has arranged "Chicago VIII" as a medley which contains "Anyway You Want", "Harry Truman", "Long Time, No See", "Never Been in Love Before" and "Old Days".

Samuel Ward's "America the Beautiful", arranged by Car-

Houchin announces candidacy

John Houchin

John Houchin, 1019 Davis Blvd., announces his candidacy for the office of assessor of Scott County in the Aug. 3 Democratic primary election.

Houchin has been a member of the Sikeston City Council since April 1974. He is also a member of the Sikeston Planning and Zoning Commission.

He has been a businessman for 21 years and is owner of Houchin's Do-Nut Drive In, 417 W. Malone Ave. He is also engaged in the real estate business.

Houchin is an active member of Wesley United Methodist Church and serves on the church board.

He and his wife Faye have two children, Tammy and Teresa.

Houchin said he plans to continue providing the public with good service in the assessor's office and making improvements wherever possible. He said he wants to extend the same courtesy and service in office he has given to the public in his 21 years in business.

Bloomfield chief of police resigns

BLOOMFIELD — Chief of police Byron Phillips, a member of the police force for about six years, submitted his resignation Thursday night after members of the city council had complained he was "sleeping on the job."

The council accepted the resignation in a closed meeting and has not hired a replacement for Phillips.

Mayor Glen Ayers said this morning that there were no hard feelings and that there had been no pressure put on Phillips to resign.

The complaint against Phillips was issued during a meeting April 22 and was brought up by new council member Sonny McRoy.

Phillips was in attendance at Thursday night's public meeting, but declined to comment during the open portion of the meeting.

"I had headlines like I was guilty of a felony of some sort," he said, referring to a Daily Standard story concerning the May meeting.

After the public meeting Thursday night he appeared hurt but did not comment on the validity of the charges.

"I apoligize for the whole thing happening," Ayers told Phillips, but neither he nor the council members would discuss the problem with the reporter present.

At the May meeting the council authorized Jim Hall and Bill Cowgur, members of the police committee, to talk with Phillips, who was on vacation at the time.

However it was reported Thursday night that this was the first official meeting with the police chief.

Phillips waited in a room next to the council room for almost three hours until the public portion of the meeting could be taken care of. During the closed meeting, four applicants for the job were discussed. The council will probably interview the candidates next week.

The acting chief now is Charles Jarrell, an officer on the force.

The closed meeting lasted about 45 minutes.

Armed bandits rob Quick Shop

Two young men armed with rifles took an undetermined amount of cash from the Quick Shop on North Main Street about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, according to police.

Police said that about 11:30 p.m. two clerks walked into the front of the store from the back and found two young men pointing rifles at them. Both men were wearing ski masks.

The robbers told the clerks to give them the money from the cash register. They then fled south on foot.

The clerks said both robbers appeared to be about 16 or 17 years old.

Final human issues forum set Tuesday

The Human Issues Forum of Sikeston will present the last of its series of three programs dealing with land use at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Security Federal Savings & Loan Association community room, 820 N. Main St. The last program will be devoted to the topic, "Power Plants: Asset or Liability".

Charles Sharp, assistant professor of history at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau will discuss the humanistic concerns involved in technological progress, and E. R. GOP plans convention here Saturday

T. A. Haggard of Steele, chairman of the 10th Congressional District Republican Committee, will conduct the district convention Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Three delegates and three alternates will be selected to attend the national convention in August. One person will be nominated to run as a presidential elector.

The meeting will be open to anyone, but the voting delegates are those elected earlier by county conventions throughout the district.

State council meets here

Members of the State Advisory Council on Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities met at the Ramada Inn, Highway 62 East, Wednesday and Thursday for a monthly business meeting. The group also toured Delmo Project facilities near Circle City and saw a youth project near Lilbourn. The projects take individuals out of institutions when cases permit and place them in foster homes, which, according to council officials, is a great savings to taxpayers and beneficial to the individual. Attending the meeting, from left, are B. Jane Garrett of Kansas City, member; Mary Perez, St. Louis, member; Joyce Weber, Dexter, member; Mildred Marks, Sikeston, member; Merrill Sindt, Jefferson City, member; William L. TV movie said to be a giant step for mental health

"A giant step for mental health will take place tonight through an extraordinary television event," Jeff Graves, president of the Tri-County Mental Health Association, said today.

As part of its Friday night movie series, ABC Television will televise the film "Return To Earth, based on the book by Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin. The 90-minute special will feature Cliff Robertson as Aldrin, with Shirley Knight, Ralph Bellamy and Stephanie Powers in strong supporting roles.

The film focuses on the personal experiences of astronaut Aldrin following his historic first moon landing--his serious bout with mental depression and the resulting strain on his personal and family life.

An emotional dramatic presentation, "Return To Earth" is filled with important, accurate messages about depression and about getting help for an emotional problem. It reinforces the reminder that anyone might, at some time in his or her life, need professional help. It is an open, honest account of one of the astronauts (often seen as almost superhuman) who needed help, sought that help and is not ashamed to talk about the experience.

Aldrin has served as National Mental Health Chairman for the National Association for Mental Health and currently is a board member of that organization.

In connection with the national telecast, the Tri-County Mental Health Association is joining with chapters of the association nationwide in a campaign to increase its membership.

In the Tri-County area, "Return To Earth" can be seen at 8:30 p.m. on channel 3.

Red Cross blood program to offer a challenge

Participation in the Red Cross blood program offers residents the challenge "to go out and take responsibility for each other."

That's the way Dr. Daniel L. Rosenstein, a pathologist at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, describes the program for which donors will be sought on a continuing basis beginning this summer.

"Blood cannot be manufactured," the pathologist emphasized. "If we do not help each other there isn't going to be any other help. If we give blood we see that others have it."

The Sikeston hospital and the Chaffee General hospital have agreed to cooperate in the program, which assures ample quantities of blood for patients if donor quotas are met.

Some of the advantages of the Red Cross as a source of blood as explained by Dr. Rosenstein are; less incidence of hepatitis, the potential for more efficient use of blood and more sophisticated transfusion therapy, the scope and flexibility of a large program; tissue typing so that in difficult situations platelets, a blood component, won't be destroyed; white cell transfusions; compatibility testing of blood.

"The Red Cross and the American Association of Blood Banks maintain a rare donor file, thus having a source for obtaining rare type of blood when needed," said Dr. Rosenstein.

While the Scott County Chapter of the Red Cross will be cooperating with the regional blood program in St. Louis, it will also have the benefit of the wide facilities of the American Red Cross.

Another advantage of Red Cross blood is that it can be returned to headquarters before its useful life expired and still be utilized, Dr. Rosenstein explained. This eliminates the waste of outdating when commercial blood is discarded because it is ineffective.

Supporting the Red Cross program, the Missouri Pilots Association has volunteered to fly blood to hospitals where it is needed on a call basis.

Although nothing is paid to the donor under the Red Cross program those who receive it pay a charge for processing and transfusing. Such costs are usually paid by health insurance or Medicare. Those who receive blood under the program are relieved of the problem of asking friends to donate an amount of blood equal to the quantity they received.

Bicentennial parade day is schedule Saturday

LILBOURN — Saturday is bicentennial parade day in Lilbourn, but the day's activities also include games, contests and a white elephant sale.

Units entering the parade should gather in front of the United Methodist Church at 9 a.m. The parade is scheduled to begin at 9:30.

It will move north on Main Street, turn east on Phillips Avenue, then turn south at the Masonic Lodge, ending at the city park.

In addition to the high school band, large floats will be entered by the General Baptist Church, First Baptist Church and Church of god.

There will be an assortment of minifloats, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, decorated people, three wheel bikes, drum and fife corp. and saddle club riders.

Cash prizes will be awarded to large floats, trophies to minifloats, trikes and bikes.

After the parade, games, contests and a white elephant sales will take place in the park.

SeMo Shrine Club to meet this evening

The monthly meeting of the SeMo Shrine Club will be held at the Shangri-La Restaurant in Sikeston. There will be a social hour from 6:30 to 7:30 P.M. The meeting will begin at 7:30 P.M. This will be lady's night and they will be entertained by the SeMo Shrine Club Clowns.

UNCLE SAM GROWS FATTER

Is there a family in the country that wouldn't scream if it came home from a weekend trip to find it had been robbed of $2,000? Unbeknown to most families, that's how much they're losing every year. The culprit doesn't wear a mask; he wears a beard and top hat. His weapons are a myriad of federal regulations. And his name, of course, is Uncle sam.

"The magnitude of the federal regulatory apparatus is staggering," writes Idaho Congressman George Hansen in a recent newsletter to his constituents. "Just in the area of the standard independent regulatory agencies, the number has doubled in the past 10 years to 24. There are now more than 63,000 federal bureaucrats with regulatory functions in these agencies. A Library of Congress study indicated that in 1974, while Congress was passing 404 laws, the federal bureaucracy was churning out 7,496 regulations!

Hansen, a Republican, continues: "The Office of Management and budget — the Executive Branch's bookkeeper — estimates that regulations cost $130 billion a year, or $2,000 per family, in artifically inflated prices, additional costs to consumers, and lost productivity.

"For example, there are more than 5,146 different government forms which are required to be filed by businesses at a total annual estimated cost of $40 billion. Some of the regulations even go so far as to stifle competition and create monopolies. For instance, the Interstate Commerce Commission prohibits competition by prescribing routes carriers may travel, commodities they may carry, and the size and conditions of loading."

Two other agencies singled out by the Idahoan as being both in conflict with the Bill of Rights and "doing violence to the small businesses and smal towns of the nation" are the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. The Congressman also indicts the Consumer Product Safety Commission — two of whose "memorable" reports were on how to strike book matches and how to get into and out of bathtubs.

Hansen recently launched a national effort to alert citizens as to their legal rights when confronted with Big Brotherism in violation of such Constitutional guarantees as trial by jury and no illegal search and seizure. He also makes a good case for a bill before Congress called the Regulatory Reform Act of 1976. The bill would require the President to submit reorganization plans for these agencies at specified times during the next four years — plans that would make the agencies leaner, less oppressive, less duplicative, and less costly.

"These are just some of the much needed steps we can take to bring this monster under control," he argues persuasively. "We will have to do it if democratic government is to survive."

UNEQUAL EXPECTANCY

They may feel "unequal" in other ways, but women have no kick coming in the Life expectancy department.

Today's woman of 45 can look forward to another 33.9 years of life, says the Institute of Life Insurance. This is a new high. Just 25 years ago, average life expectancy for women that age was 30.6 years.

Far more dramatic is the change since the century began. In 1900, a baby girl could expect to live to age 48, while a baby boy had a life expectancy of 46 years.

The difference has since then widened eight years, still in favor of women. A female born in 1974 had a life expectancy of 75.9 years, as contrasted with 68.2 years for males.

Medical advances have been responsible for gains in both female and male life expectancy, but one of the most significant factors in improving female longevity has been the reduction of deaths occuring during childbirth, says the Institute.

In 1974, there were 14.6 deaths of mothers for every 100,000 live births. In the early part of the century, the maternal mortality rate was 727.9 per 100,000 live births.

CAT AND MOUSE GAME

"Doctor, Doctor," called Mr. Schultz frantically, "Come quick. You know my wife always sleeps with her mouth open and just now a mouse ran down her throat."

"I'll be over in a few minutes," said the doctor. "Meanwhile, try waving a piece of cheese in front of her mouth and maybe the mouse will come out."

When the doctor reached the Schultz apartment, he found Mr. Schultz in his shirt sleeves waving a six-pound flounder frantically in front of the prostate Mrs. Schultz's face.

"What's the idea?" said the exasperated doctor. "I told you to wave a piece of cheese. Mice don't like flounders."

"I know, I know," gasped Mr. Schultz, "but we've got to get the cat out first."

WHY THE CONTROVERSY OVER PROPOSED FEDERAL DAY-CARE?

There is nothing new about organized day care--it has existed in this country since the 1800s. What the current debate is about is how much the Federal Government should get involved in the business--and whether greater federal involvement won't be at the expense of the private day-care operations in the country.

There are three ways in which the Federal Government could get involved. One would be for the Federal Government to provide a tax break for the parent who may have to send his child to a day care center in order to go to work himself. A second would be for the Federal Government to provide money to existing day-care centers. A third would be for the Federal Government to get into the day care center business itself, and this is where the controversial Child and Family Service Act (CFSA), sponsored by Sen. Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) and Rep. John Brademas (D.-Ind.), comes in. It has aroused opposition from those who fear that it will be the opening wedge of further government interference in the way Americans have traditionally brought up their children. Those who are fighting the bill have seen how federal monies in other areas have led to tightened federal controls.

Obviously there are many working mothers with children (but that is another story about why). In 1960, 18.6 per cent of all married women with children under six who lived with their husbands had jobs. In 1974 the figure was 34.4 per cent. Among widows and divorcees and women not living with their husbands, the figure was 54 per cent. (There are also numerous households with a single male parent.) In all, about six million children of pre school age in 1974 had working mothers. But licensed day-care facilities can accomodate only a million of them. Where have the other five million been? Playing the street? Surely, the argument has gone, there is a demonstrable need for more federal support for licensed centers. But there are alternatives to federal intervention, such as building more local centers, or even persuading mothers to stay home and look after their children. In fact, most of the other five million children are receiving family or neighborhood-centered care, which most working mothers in all income brackets seem to prefer.

But it is not the preference of the AFL-CIO or the National Federation of Teachers. They favor the Mondale-Brademas CFSA, which would finance day care, with "prime sponsors" designated by the Federal Government. To be sure, they favor it with a difference: they want the "prime sponsors" to be the schools.

Actually, the Mondale-Brademas bill is very similar to one vetoed by President Nixon in 1971. Former HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger said that bill would be impossible to administer because it involved thousands of prime sponsors, would duplicate existing programs, and would be very expensive. The Mondale-Brademas bill would authorize first-year spending of $150 million, second-year spending of $700 million. And in the third year: $1 billion.

How much control would parents maintain over their children in CFSA centers? Lots, claim the bill's supporters. No child would be subjected to experimentation without the knowledge of the parent, who can exempt the child if he or she chooses. But how much easier it would have been to provide for no experiments without prior consent. And that's not all. The wording of the bill is ambiguous as to what in fact is considered to be the parent. According to the statute, a parent is "any person who has primary day-to-day responsibility for any child"--a definition that could seem to include the day-care-center woman and possibly even exclude the "real"--non-statutory--parent.

The CFSA is suspect for other reasons, too. As we see it, the Child and Family Services Act is a concept that would get the Federal Government right into the middle of child rearing, with rules and regulations and approved methods for this and that. It would push bureaucratic entanglements down to the six-year-old level and younger--which, on second thought, may be exactly where they belong.

ACTION ON THE HEARNES CASE

An investigation by the U.S. attorney's office here of Warren E. Hearnes, former governor of Missouri, has been underway for about three years. An indictment has not been returned.

The Internal Revenue Service, which joined in the investigation for a time, said recently it has dropped its criminal investigation of Hearnes but that a civil probe continues.

In the last few days Bert Hurn, U.S. attorney, disclosed his investigation of Hearnes is not yet concluded. He made this disclosure after being pressed by Hearnes to publicly state that the investigation was over and no wrong doing had been found.

Hearnes can hardly be blamed for trying to force the issue. Three years is a long time to live under the cloud of a continuing, well-publicized inquiry.

Hurn and other authorities cannot be faulted for pursuing an investigation if, as must be assumed, they think they can uncover evidence with which to indict Hearnes. It is their duty to scrutinize when they suspect illegal acts. Still, it is unfortunate that the matter cannot be cleared up more quickly, one way or another.

Hearnes is a lawyer by profession. Currently he is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate in the primary next August. The circumstances of this investigation make it difficult to pursue either of these interests in a very satisfactory manner.

The general public has ample reason for concern in this case. For if this type of investigation can be conducted of Hearnes, it can happen to anyone else.

Regardless of the outcome, one conclusion seems obvious: Whether Hearnes is indictable or not, the U.S. attorney's office has taken much too long in finding out.

THE IMPORTANCE OF REGISTERING TO VOTE

The importance of registering and voting was forcibly brought home in the recent school levy election at Paris to those who hadn't done so, were in favor of the levy, yet couldn't or didn't vote.

The final score on the yes and no votes showed that a change of 23 votes, or the addition of 45 votes would have carried the levy.

There have been elections in Monroe County in which one to ten more votes would have won for someone or some issue.

That's how important it is for all of us to register, and for all of us to vote in every election.

HARMONIOUS BLEND NEEDED

Americans have long been lured to the great forests covering vast areas of their nation. Whether as campers, hunters, hikers, fishermen or nature lovers, they could be assured at least one sanctuary from the pressures of life.

However, since the passage of the Wilderness Act in 1964, some 10.7 million acres of federal land have been withdrawn as Wilderness areas from multiple-use management. According to the National Forest Products Association, the federal government now owns 96.9 per cent of the land in Alaska alone. The disturbing trend toward sealing off large chunks of forest land from use for all but a few backpacing individuals is unfortunate indeed.

The rising demand for wood products and recreation areas must be met--at a time when land is at a premium due to worldwide population growth. There must be a blend of wildlife and recreational use in keeping with the timely harvesting of commercial timberlands. The rejection of multiple-use land management, at this point, would set into motion adverse economic reverberations the likes of which this country has seldom experienced.

"And what was the result?" asked the doctor.

"The kids favored it, nine to four."

PRICE TAG OF CRIME AGAINST BUSINESS RUNS INTO BILLIONS

Burglary, robbery, vandalism, shoplifting, employe theft, bad checks, credit card fraud and arson cost U.S. business an estimated $19.1 billion in 1975 and the cost of preventive measures was an additional $4.5 billion.

The 1975 figure from the U.S. Department of Commerce includes $6.5 billion for crimes in the retail sector, $3.2 billion in the manufacturing sector, $2.4 billion for wholesaling, $4.3 billion for the service sector, $2.3 billion for transportation and $0.4 billion for arson.

The total 1975 figure of $23.6 billion amounts to about 15 per cent of corporate profits.

The estimate for the total cost of crimes against business and of preventive measures in 1974 was $20.3 billion.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Report Terrorists Have Heat-Seeking U.S. Missiles
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— The weapons we poured into South Vietnam may now be turned against us. It is known that abandoned U.S. arms have fallen into the hands of world-wide terrorists.

Terror groups have been able to get everything from handguns to recoilless rifles, all spanking new, from Vietnam. The most dangerous are shoulder-fired Redeye missiles, which can knock aircraft out of the air or destroy them on the runway.

The U.S. Customs Service has quietly alerted police across the country to be on the lookout for terrorists with Vietnam War weapons.

"Redeye missiles are available for sale to terrorist groups," Customs has warned. "The compactness of these missiles poses a problem to Customs officers attempting to stop the illegal import of arms and explosives."

Not only do the heat-seeking Redeye missiles demolish aircraft by literally zooming up their tailpipes, but they can also be sued against motor vehicles and factories.

Intelligence sources have traced the shipment of U.S.-made arms from Vietnam to Libya whose reckless leader, Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, has become the terrorists' chief supplier.

The Customs alert is the first solid evidence, however, that the captured U.S. arms may now be coming back to haunt us. Warns Customs: "The sophistication of terrorist groups has increased ... Modern military weapons are being used regularly."

SOVIET BENEFITS: The State Dept. is upset because the Soviet Union once again has gotten the best of the United States in a commercial deal.

In a letter stamped "Confidential," Deputy Secretary Charles Robinson has complained to the Civil Aeronautics Board that the Soviets are raking in most of the benefits from the flight agreements between the two countries.

Pan American Airlines' share of the business has dropped form 60 to a meager 27 per cent, while the Soviet Aeroflot's share has shot up from 40 to 73 per cent.

Wrote Robinson bluntly: "The Department believes that it is essential, from a foreign policy viewpoint and overall U.S. national interests, that our agreements with the Soviet Union produce an equitable balance of benefits.

"The current US-USSR Civil Air Transport Agreement, while balanced in concept, has resulted in significantly greater economic benefits for the Soviet Union than for the United States. Some improvements have been achieved, but this imbalance has not been satisfactorily resolved."

Robinson urged a "revenue pooling agreement to redress the imbalance." Our sources say the Soviets are amenable to revenue pooling if they are permitted to operate more flights to the United States than Pan Am is granted to Russia.

Footnote: A CAB spokesman said the board had rejected a draft agreement between Pan Am and Aeroflot because it was unfavorable to Pan Am.

URANIUM WINDFALL: The Ford Administration is pushing legislation which would give three companies the right virtually to dictate uranium enrichment prices. The move could cost potential users of nuclear energy a staggering $1 billion over a five-year period.

At present, prices are determined independently by the government. But under the legislation that the Administration wants, an industrial troika would be able to set the prices.

The lead firm in the deal is the Bechtel Corp., which hired President Ford's Health, Edcation and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger and ex-President Nixon's Treasury Secretary George Shultz. The other two companies are Goodyear Tire and Rubber and the William Co.

SHOOTING IN YEMEN: Our associate, Joe Spear, reports from North Yemen that bomb explosions and random shootings occur every night in this remote but strategic country at the tip of the Arabian peninsula.

"No one is sure," writes Spear, "whether the violence is instigated by tribal Arabs who want to return North Yemen to a sheikhdom or Arab revolutionaries with close ties to the Soviet Union."

But there is evidence that the Soviets, operating from South Yemen across the border, are trying to infiltrate the media and organize secret Communist cells in North Yemen.

EXPROPRIATED ELEVATOR: Some congressmen have been flattered into believing that the process of election has somehow lifted them above other Americans and has made them more worthy and less subject to reproach than the people who elect them.

At one House elevator bank, for example, two out of three elevators are reserved for members during roll call. The tourists are obliged to crowd aboard the third.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D.-Fla., found both reserved elevators in use when he showed up. He barged through the crowd, commandeered the public elevator, held the tourists back with his hands and rode up to the House floor in lone splendor.

"This happens occasionally," he explained to us, when congressmen are in a hurry to make a vote.

Kennedy Combine Strategy: Labor Chiefs mocked by Carter, but see themselves forced to support him

WASHINGTON— Once more labor's nationally powerful political leaders are groaning under the weight of their computerized campaign machinery which is pulsating but apparently has no more place to go than it did in '72 -- because in the words of the one man in the best position to say so, labor "is really in a state of confusion. We're in a hell of a spot."

Why? Because "we in labor have decided there is no question that Carter has a first ballot victory. Very decisive ... easily a majority ... with an iron grip ... long before the convention."

And "there is no doubt in my mind we will take him (Carter) over a Ford. There is no change in our position, though Carter is a new face."

Taking Jimmy Carter will be the price the national labor leadership says it's willing to pay to "rid the White House of the Republicans." Point is just what strategy to use. There's little doubt that the way-out frontrunner has little personal use for either the veteran AFL-CIO chief, George Meany, or the latter's continent-hopping Committee on Political Education director, Al Barkan.

And the sentiment is mutual. Most national AFL-CIO chiefs see the Georgian as a conservative promising all things to all races and creeds.

But they had guessed wrong. Their strategy (and that of the so-called labor Clearing House Coalition) of attempting to win as many delegates as possible to the national Democratic convention without concentrating on one candidate and then coalescing, caucusing and finally pressuring the conclave into nominating their ticket, failed as it did in 1972.

And Carter hasn't hesitated to rub their political noses in the brackish refuse of desolate losers' campaign headquarters.

The ex-governor of Georgia reverted to the jargon he used when in office in Atlanta. Again he has been jeering at the "labor bosses." He said the union members wouldn't be "led by their noses."

He scorned conferring with Meany, saying he hadn't thought of "getting together" with the AFL-CIO chief of chiefs or with Barkan. Carter is the only Democratic candidate who hasn't gone up to the "Eighth Floor" to confer with labor's elder statesman.

Usually that's politically fatal. But Carter is thriving and enjoying himself. He knows he has them where he wants them – either him (Carter) or Jerry Ford or Ronnie Reagan. Further he believes he can continue heaving his rhetoric over the labor chiefs' heads especially because he has strong support in the Kennedy camp.

Ted Kennedy already has virtually endorsed him. Further, it can be reported that last summer Carter flew into New York to talk with the Kennedyian writer-historian-attorney Ted Sorensen. They discussed political philosophy, and national and foreign policies.

Sorensen tells me he soon felt that "Carter is the one candidate who could provide the country with new leadership and could beat the field." They met again, sometimes with Carter's aides. Sorensen, believing Carter to be as qualified as such "other one-term governors as Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and Adlai Stevenson," ran a fundraising dinner for the Georgian and began working with the candidate's foreign policy an economic task forces.

There just isn't any doubt of the Carter-Kennedy alliance. In addition to a string of other old Kennedy teammates, Dean Rusk, Jack Kennedy's Secretary of State, endorsed Carter on May 2.

Carter offers the nation "a chance for a fresh start somewhat in the spirit of John F. Kennedy," said Rusk.

Thus it's logical to reason that slowly the Kennedy people will unleash their endorsement of Carter at strategic moments. If all this isn't orchestrated, the baton is still to be invented.

This will lead to a supercharged endorsement by United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, long an intimate of the Kennedys. All of which puts Meany and his massive federation in an awkward position. Carter just isn't Meany's man for any season. Meany is issue-oriented. Carter isn't. Meany wants loyalty to the "movement." Carter is thumbing his nose. Meany and his colleagues want someone they know personally in the White House- that's the channel to cabinet appointments.

Carter gives no signal he'll listen. Or that he won't appoint men whose philosophical hearts belong to Kennedy and Woodcock, a close collaborator with Europe's Socialist leaders. All of which is distasteful to Meany.

Further, at least four influential union leaders have said in the past few days that it would take little indeed for them either to go neutral for Jerry Ford or to endorse him outright as they did Dick Nixon in '72.

In effect they're saying they know what they have "in Jerry Ford, economic adviser Bill Seidman and the current cabinet members." They're not certain what they'd get from Carter--except a handshake.

They say they'd rather have a "nice guy" than an unknown "cold guy." And that accounts for the consternation and confusion on top.

Child Development Center registering for summer

The Sikeston Child Development Center is now registering children for the summer and fall enrollment. To be eligible for this free full-day care, a child must be 3, 4 or 5 years old and must come from a home of low income where the mother is employed or in vocational training. An 8 a.m.-4 p.m. daily schedule is maintained 12 months a year with a complete program of child development offered.

The Center is licensed for 40 children and a few vacancies will occur June 1. There will be more vacancies in the fall with the transfer of children to kindergarten. Parents who wish to enroll their children for June or September should do so at once. Call 472-0132 for information or come to the Center at 229 Westgate (Manpower Training Building in former Lincoln School) to complete registration.

BROADWAY STAR NOT ABOVE HOUSEWORK

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Hopkins, star of the Broadway musical, "Me and Bessie," was formerly a domestic.

"I still enjoy doing my own housework," she says. "It keeps me humble."

And, too, she confesses she's hard to please when it comes to having someone else clean for her.

Most of the Arctic's lands lose their covering of ice and snow in the summer. Temperatures can rise to as high as 90 degrees F. in some places.

CHILDREN'S ROOMS DECORATING CHALLENGE

No decorating job is more fun—or more of a challenge than doing a child's room. That one area in the home is just the place to let your imagination run rampant. It's also the ideal spot in which to test your decorating skill. And the trick is to design a room that's not only pretty and practical, but one that can grow with your child as he or she gets older.

As any parent can tell you, a child goes from the nursery to college at an amazingly rapid rate. Naturally, as he grows older, the appearance of his room changes, too. But that doesn't mean a complete redecorating at every stage of a child's young life. If you select furniture basics with care, a quick change of background can turn the same toddler playroom into a teenage den and later into a handy guestroom.

Here are some tips for decorating your child's room:

• Select bright, happy colors. Pink for girls, blue for boys may be standard, but don't be afraid of vibrant colors mixed into way-out combinations. Above all, be cheerful.

• For the young child, rely on fabrics that require a minimum of care. Washable window shades, bedspreads, wallpaper, and even rugs are a true blessing in disguise.

• Make sure that all decorations are non-toxic and safe for children. Also avoid furnishings with sharp edges in case of toddler falls.

• Choose simple styles for furniture, like campaign chests, concentrating on interest from wall and fabric patterns. Stripes, florals, geometric prints, and animal designs in bold colors are particularly well-suited to the child's room.

• Try built-in bookcases for toy, book, and record storage. They'll help to minimize clutter.

Weddings to come

Kirkland-Parker

Cheryl Kirkland

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirkland of Route Five Sikeston announce the engagement of their daughter Cheryl to Ricky Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Parker of Route Three Sikeston.

Miss Kirkland is a 1976 graduate of Sikeston Senior High. Her fiance graduated from Matthews High School in 1974.

No wedding date has been set.

Bisher-McDonald

Patricia Kay Bisher

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Bisher of Route Four Sikeston announce the engagement of their daughter Patricia Kay to Tony Jay McDonald, son of Mrs. Norman Hann of Dexter.

Miss Bisher attended Sikeston Senior High and her fiance attended Dexter High School. He is employed by Vowels Goodyear Tire Co. in Dexter.

The couple plans a June wedding.

RHUBARB COMPOTE

This method helps to keep the rhubarb pieces intact.

1 pound trimmed hothouse rhubarb
¾ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup water

Cut rhubarb crosswise into ½-inch pieces — there should be about 3½ cups. Rinse. In a saucepan stir together the corn syrup, sugar and water; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil 5 minutes or until sugar is dissolved. Add rhubarb to hot syrup; return to full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Cover tightly and let stand for 30 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes about 2½ cups — 5 servings.

Ann Landers

Ann tells how smokers quit

Dear Ann Landers: Like millions of others, I am hooked on cigarets. I feel as if I have some loathsome disease.

Everywhere I turn groups are starting up to protect non-smokers against me and others who are similarly affected. Laws are being passed to prohibit smoking in public places. I'm not complaining. It has been proven that non-smokers can be seriously affected by the smoke of others if they are exposed to it in closed quarters for an extended period of time.

I suffer from high blood pressure and emphysema. I know I'm killing myself. But I am unable to stop this filthy, expensive, dangerous habit. Many people HAVE stopped smoking. Why can't I? Please ask your readers who have accomplished this gargantuan feat how they did it. I'd be eternally grateful. -- Nicotine Freak

Dear Nic: I don't need to ask my readers. I know how they did it.

Some went to smoking clinics. (The Seventh Day Adventists have such a program in many cities. It's a five-day plan.) St. Helena's Hospital in California has cured thousands – those who need a complete change environment and can afford it. (St. Helena's is beautiful. I spent an evening there last year.)

Hypnosis worked for some, but I am not recommending it because messing around with the mind can be hazardous for certian individuals.

Counseling has been effective in some instances, but it's costly and time-consuming.

Many smokers used a variety of gimmicks such as no more buying by the carton and limiting themselves to smoking only after meals, then cutting out the post-breakfast cigaret, next the after-lunch, etc.

The best way to quit smoking is cold turkey. This means face up to the withdrawal symptoms, expect to suffer a lot, and simply guts it out. Painful? You bet. But it's nothing compared with having surgery to remove a lung and then taking cobalt treatments for several months, or the agony of paralysis after a blood vessel bursts. (They call it a stroke.)

I hope you win the battle, friend, because I love my readers and I hate to see 'em go.

Dear Ann Landers: My son was 16 when he got a 15-year-old girl pregnant. He wasn't even her steady. She was just a date.

He is 17 now and goes to the same school with the girl. She is way out in front and everyone knows my son is the father of her unborn child. Her plan is to keep the baby. Her folks approve. In fact, I understand they want to raise it.

This girl keeps telling my son what she is going to do to him when he reaches the age of 18. He is awfully upset and so am I. Please tell us, Ann Landers, what CAN she do? -- Worried Mom

Dear Mom: Ask a lawyer. It depends on which state you live in. And get going.

CONFIDENTIAL to Egg on My Face: There are no pat answers that fit every situation. Sometimes when you build a better mouse-trap nature breeds a smarter mouse.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

TV movie said to be a giant step for mental health

"A giant step for mental health will take place tonight through an extraordinary television event," Jeff Graves, president of the Tri-County Mental Health Association, said today.

As part of its Friday night movie series, ABC Television will televise the film "Return To Earth, based on the book by Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin. The 90-minute special will feature Cliff Robertson as Aldrin, with Shirley Knight, Ralph Bellamy and Stephanie Powers in strong supporting roles.

The film focuses on the personal experiences of astronaut Aldrin following his historic first moon landing—his serious bout with mental depression and the resulting strain on his personal and family life.

An emotional dramatic presentation, "Return To Earth" is filled with important, accurate messages about depression and about getting help for an emotional problem. It reinforces the reminder that anyone might, at some time in his or her life, need professional help. It is an open, honest account of one of the astronauts (often seen as almost superhuman) who needed help, sought that help and is not ashamed to talk about the experience.

Aldrin has served as National Mental Health Chairman for the National Association for Mental Health and currently is a board member of that organization.

In connection with the national telecast, the Tri-County Mental Health Association is joining with chapters of the association nationwide in a campaign to increase its membership.

In the Tri-County area, "Return To Earth" can be seen at 8:30 p.m. on channel 3.

Red Cross blood program to offer a challenge

Participation in the Red Cross blood program offers residents the challenge "to go out and take responsibility for each other."

That's the way Dr. Daniel L. Rosenstein, a pathologist at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, describes the program for which donors will be sought on a continuing basis beginning this summer.

"Blood cannot be manufactured," the pathologist emphasized. "If we do not help each other there isn't going to be any other help. If we give blood we see that others have it."

The Sikeston hospital and the Chaffee General hospital have agreed to cooperate in the program, which assures ample quantities of blood for patients if donor quotas are met.

Some of the advantages of the Red Cross as a source of blood as explained by Dr. Rosenstein are; less incidence of hepatitis, the potential for more efficient use of blood and more sophisticated transfusion therapy, the scope and flexibility of a large program; tissue typing so that in difficult situations platelets, a blood component, won't be destroyed; white cell transfusions; compatibility testing of blood.

"The Red Cross and the American Association of Blood Banks maintain a rare donor file, thus having a source for obtaining rare type of blood when needed," said Dr. Rosenstein.

While the Scott County Chapter of the Red Cross will be cooperating with the regional blood program in St. Louis, it will also have the benefit of the wide facilities of the American Red Cross.

Another advantage of Red Cross blood is that it can be returned to headquarters before its useful life expired and still be utilized, Dr. Rosenstein explained. This eliminates the waste of outdating when commercial blood is discarded because it is ineffective.

Supporting the Red Cross program, the Missouri Pilots Association has volunteered to fly blood to hospitals where it is needed on a call basis.

Although nothing is paid to the donor under the Red Cross program those who receive it pay a charge for processing and transfusing. Such costs are usually paid by health insurance or Medicare. Those who receive blood under the program are relieved of the problem of asking friends to donate an amount of blood equal to the quantity they received.

Bicentennial parade day is schedule Saturday

LILBOURN — Saturday is bicentennial parade day in Lilbourn, but the day's activities also include games, contests and a white elephant sale.

Units entering the parade should gather in front of the United Methodist Church at 9 a.m. The parade is scheduled to begin at 9:30.

It will move north on Main Street, turn east on Phillips Avenue, then turn south at the Masonic Lodge, ending at the city park.

In addition to the high school band, large floats will be entered by the General Baptist Church, First Baptist Church and Church of god.

There will be an assortment of minifloats, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, decorated people, three wheel bikes, drum and fife corp. and saddle club riders.

Cash prizes will be awarded to large floats, trophies to minifloats, trikes and bikes.

After the parade, games, contests and a white elephant sales will take place in the park.

SeMo Shrine Club to meet this evening

The monthly meeting of the SeMo Shrine Club will be held at the Shangri-La Restaurant in Sikeston. There will be a social hour from 6:30 to 7:30 P.M. The meeting will begin at 7:30 P.M. This will be lady's night and they will be entertained by the SeMo Shrine Club Clowns.

THE PRODUCT — A deodorant to dispel musty odors from basements, crawl spaces, laundry rooms, etc.

Manufacturer's claim — That this product is based on a biomolecular complex which has been approved by the Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency as a germicide-disinfectant-deodorizer ... that two capfuls to a gallon of water are sufficient for controlling most mildew odors; four to six gallons for stubborn cases ... that it gives a high degree of bacterial and odor control previously unobtainable ... and that a variation of it is especially effective as a kennel deodorizer.

Winning pins for 100 to 200 hours were from left, Audrey Woodward, Mary Ogden, and Adam Melzer. Not present for the picture were Martha Edwards and Dorothy Scott.

RSVP workers are recognized

Sikeston volunteers in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) were honored Wednesday night at a picnic supper in Clayton Park.

Mrs. Ellie Knight, coordinator of the Scott County RSVP program, presented awards to the volunteers according to their hours of service.

New volunteers received ribbons. Ribbons were also given to those who have given under 100 hours of time since they entered the program. Pins were given to those who had worked from 100 to 200 hours. For 200 to 300 hours of service, volunteers got certificates, and those working more than 300 hours were awarded gold stars.

The organizations participating in the program locally are the Heritage House, Scott County Information and Referral, Sikeston Nutrition Program, Mental Health Traveling Clinic, Sikeston Art Council, and the Foster Grandparent Program.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — When I married recently I received as gifts two flannelette sheets and a white bedspread. I would like to know how to get the lint off of them. I have washed them and hung them on the line on a windy day, and also have put them in the dryer alone, but the lint remains. I would appreciate some suggestions on how to remove this.

My Pet Peeve is with the way hems are now put in many readymade dresses. Nine out of ten times they are sewn in with that fish line thread. After one or two washings the hems start to come out and then we have to spend all that time rehemming them. — LAVERNE.

DEAR LAVERNE — You do have a problem. About all I can suggest is to keep brushing with a whisk broom when your linty things are on the line. Also rinsing with a fabric softener helps some. I am sure that if any readers have found more successful methods we will be hearing from them. — POLLY.

Child Development Center registering for summer

The Sikeston Child Development Center is now registering children for the summer and fall enrollment. To be eligible for this free full-day care, a child must be 3, 4 or 5 years old and must come from a home of low income where the mother is employed or in vocational training. An 8 a.m.-4 p.m. daily schedule is maintained 12 months a year with a complete program of child development offered.

The Center is licensed for 40 children and a few vacancies will occur June 1. There will be more vacancies in the fall with the transfer of children to kindergarten. Parents who wish to enroll their children for June or September should do so at once. Call 472-0132 for information or come to the Center at 229 Westgate (Manpower Training Building in former Lincoln School) to complete registration.

BROADWAY STAR NOT ABOVE HOUSEWORK

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Hopkins, star of the Broadway musical, "Me and Bessie," was formerly a domestic.

"I still enjoy doing my own housework," she says. "It keeps me humble."

And, too, she confesses she's hard to please when it comes to having someone else clean for her.

Most of the Arctic's lands lose their covering of ice and snow in the summer. Temperatures can rise to as high as 90 degrees F. in some places.

CHILDREN'S ROOMS DECORATING CHALLENGE

No decorating job is more fun—or more of a challenge—than doing a child's room. That one area in the home is just the place to let your imagination run rampant. It's also the ideal spot in which to test your decorating skill. And the trick is to design a room that's not only pretty and practical, but one that can grow with your child as he or she gets older.

As any parent can tell you, a child goes from the nursery to college at an amazingly rapid rate. Naturally, as he grows older, the appearance of his room changes, too. But that doesn't mean a complete redecorating at every stage of a child's young life. If you select furniture basics with care, a quick change of background can turn the same toddler playroom into a teenage den and later into a handy guest-room.

Here are some tips for decorating your child's room:

- Select bright, happy colors. Pink for girls, blue for boys may be standard, but don't be afraid of vibrant colors mixed into way-out combinations. Above all, be cheerful.
- For the young child, rely on fabrics that require a minimum of care. Washable window shades, bedspreads, wallpaper, and even rugs are a true blessing in disguise.
- Make sure that all decorations are non-toxic and safe for children. Also avoid furnishings with sharp edges in case of toddler falls.
- Choose simple styles for furniture, like campaign chests, concentrating on interest from wall and fabric patterns. Stripes, florals, geometric prints, and animal designs in bold colors are particularly well-suited to the child's room.
- Try built-in bookcases for toy, book, and record storage. They'll help to minimize clutter.

RHUBARB COMPOTE

This method helps to keep the rhubarb pieces intact.

1 pound trimmed hothouse rhubarb
¾ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup water

Cut rhubarb crosswise into ½-inch pieces — there should be about 3½ cups. Rinse. In a saucepan stir together the corn syrup, sugar and water; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil 5 minutes or until sugar is dissolved. Add rhubarb to hot syrup; return to full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Cover tightly and let stand for 30 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes about 2½ cups — 5 servings.

Ann Landers

Ann tells how smokers quit

Dear Ann Landers: Like millions of others, I am hooked on cigarets. I feel as if I have some loathsome disease.

Everywhere I turn groups are starting up to protect non-smokers against me and others who are similarly affected. Laws are being passed to prohibit smoking in public places. I'm not complaining. It has been proven that non-smokers can be seriously affected by the smoke of others if they are exposed to it in closed quarters for an extended period of time.

I suffer from high blood pressure and emphysema. I know I'm killing myself. But I am unable to stop this filthy, expensive, dangerous habit. Many people HAVE stopped smoking. Why can't I? Please ask your readers who have accomplished this gargantuan feat how they did it. I'd be eternally grateful. -- Nicotine Freak

Dear Nic: I don't need to ask my readers. I know how they did it.

Some went to smoking clinics. (The Seventh Day Adventists have such a program in many cities. It's a five-day plan.) St. Helena's Hospital in California has cured thousands – those who need a complete change environment and can afford it. (St. Helena's is beautiful. I spent an evening there last year.)

Hypnosis worked for some, but I am not recommending it because messing around with the mind can be hazardous for certian individuals.

Counseling has been effective in some instances, but it's costly and time-consuming.

Many smokers used a variety of gimmicks such as no more buying by the carton and limiting themselves to smoking only after meals, then cutting out the post-breakfast cigaret, next the after-lunch, etc.

The best way to quit smoking is cold turkey. This means face up to the withdrawal symptoms, expect to suffer a lot, and simply guts it out. Painful? You bet. But it's nothing compared with having surgery to remove a lung and then taking cobalt treatments for several months, or the agony of paralysis after a blood vessel bursts. (They call it a stroke.)

I hope you win the battle, friend, because I love my readers and I hate to see 'em go.

Dear Ann Landers: My son was 16 when he got a 15-year-old girl pregnant. He wasn't even her steady. She was just a date.

He is 17 now and goes to the same school with the girl. She is way out in front and everyone knows my son is the father of her unborn child. Her plan is to keep the baby. Her folks approve. In fact, I understand they want to raise it.

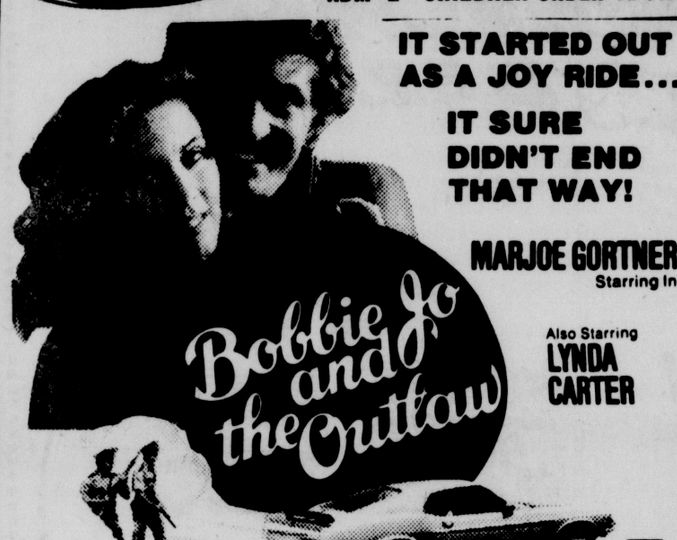

This girl keeps telling my son what she is going to do to him when he reaches the age of 18. He is awfully upset and so am I. Please tell us, Ann Landers, what CAN she do? -- Worried Mom

Dear Mom: Ask a lawyer. It depends on which state you live in. And get going.

CONFIDENTIAL to Egg on My Face: There are no pat answers that fit every situation. Sometimes when you build a better mouse-trap nature breeds a smarter mouse.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Merrick to graduate May 23 from MMA

Tom Merick

MEXICO, Mo. — Cadet Tommy Merick, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merick of Catron Route One, is among 51 graduating seniors and 23 eighth graders who will receive diplomas during 87th commencement exercises at Missouri Military Academy on May 23.

Three days of commencement ceremonies will be climaxed with an address by John C. Danforth, the attorney general of Missouri and a candidate for election to the U.S. Senate. Danforth will speak to an estimated audience of 2,000 campus visitors and cadets.

Other dignitaries who will participate in commencement include J. Neil Nielsen, commissioner of the Missouri Office of Administration, who will present two plaques sponsored by Gov Christopher S. Bond, commencement speaker at MMA last May.

Dean John Marshall of Westminster College at Fulton will present the Winston Churchill Memorial Award at the Fry Public Speaking Contest May 23. The traditional baccalaureate address will be delivered by the Rev. George Wraith, pastor of Mexico's First Christian Church.

Special awards during graduation ceremonies will be conferred by Col. Charles Stribling III, president of the academy which is a college preparatory school for boys in the fourth through 12th grades.

Other highlights during commencement weekend will be the 1976 Bicentennilal ball and the senior review at which the corps of cadets marches by in tribute to their departing fellow cadets. During the review, a ceremonial sword will be passed from this year's battalion commander, Cadet Maj. Paul Gant of Yorba Linda, Calif., to the battalion commander-designate for 1976-77.

Richland High to graduate tonight

ESSEX— Commencement exercises for the 1976 high school graduating class at Richland High School will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the high school.

THE PRODUCT — A deodorant to dispel musty odors from basements, crawl spaces, laundry rooms, etc.

Manufacturer's claim — That this product is based on a biomolecular complex which has been approved by the Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency as a germicide-disinfectant-deodorizer ... that two capfuls to a gallon of water are sufficient for controlling most mildew odors; four to six gallons for stubborn cases ... that it gives a high degree of bacterial and odor control previously unobtainable ... and that a variation of it is especially effective as a kennel deodorizer.

Winning pins for 100 to 200 hours were from left, Audrey Woodward, Mary Ogden, and Adam Melzer. Not present for the picture were Martha Edwards and Dorothy Scott.

Receiving certificates for 200 to 300 hours of work were Leah Ladd, left, and Walsie Harris.

RSVP workers are recognized

Sikeston volunteers in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) were honored Wednesday night at a picnic supper in Clayton Park.

Mrs. Ellie Knight, coordinator of the Scott County RSVP program, presented awards to the volunteers according to their hours of service.

New volunteers received ribbons. Ribbons were also given to those who have given under 100 hours of time since they entered the program. Pins were given to those who had worked from 100 to 200 hours. For 200 to 300 hours of service, volunteers got certificates, and those working more than 300 hours were awarded gold stars.

The organizations participating in the program locally are the Heritage House, Scott County Information and Referral, Sikeston Nutrition Program, Mental Health Traveling Clinic, Sikeston Art Council, and the Foster Grandparent Program.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — When I married recently I received as gifts two flannelette sheets and a white bedspread. I would like to know how to get the lint off of them. I have washed them and hung them on the line on a windy day, and also have put them in the dryer alone, but the lint remains. I would appreciate some suggestions on how to remove this.

My Pet Peeve is with the way hems are now put in many readymade dresses. Nine out of ten times they are sewn in with that fish line thread. After one or two washings the hems start to come out and then we have to spend all that time rehemming them. — LAVERNE.

DEAR LAVERNE — You do have a problem. About all I can suggest is to keep brushing with a whisk broom when your linty things are on the line. Also rinsing with a fabric softener helps some. I am sure that if any readers have found more successful methods we will be hearing from them. — POLLY.

Make sandwiches of thinly sliced ham, thinly sliced chicken or turkey breast and cheddar cheese. Dip the sandwiches in a mixture of egg and milk or light cream; fry in butter. Good served with tart cranberry sauce in a small lettuce cup.

When you are making a cheddar cheese sauce or soup, taste it before you add salt — no matter what the recipe directs! You may find that the cheese you are using adds enough salt.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Charles L. Blanton, III
The Daily Standard
205 S. New Madrid
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

Dear Charlie:

I recently had reason to look into your morgue for an old article concerning Judge Marshall Craig. I know that your system is far better than it used to i be, but it's still quite difficult to operate for a neophyte like me.

Fortunately, one of your employees that day, Jill Corti was present, and her patience, help and understanding was clearly above and beyond the call of duty. She was courteous, efficient and extremely helpful.

I just thought I would drop you a line to let you know that Jill Corti is certainly an asset to your organization.

Yours very truly

Dear Tony:

Wanted to drop you a line and tell you how much both the Sikeston Board of REALTORS and the Semo Shrine Club appreciate the excellent job you and the Standard have done in publishing their articles. It's a personal pleasure, being able to work with people, such as yourself, who make certain that note worthy pictures and artticles reach the general public.

Tony, I have enjoyed working with you in my public relations capacity for the above two organizations and sincerely hope we can keep the relationship intact.

Very truly yours,

Newman among Who's Who

POINT LOOKOUT — Phillip Thomas Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip L. Newman of Sikeston Route One, was among 26 seniors at The School of the Ozarks who were recognized by Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1975-76 at the annual dean's honor banquet on April 28.

The academic dean's office selects seniors qualifying for the Who's Who nomination on the basis of their grade-point average. A committee of faculty members further reviews this list from which only a limited number of students may be selected for the honor.

I-SC class of '76 to graduate May 27

SCOTT CITY— Baccalaureate and commencement exercises for the seniors in the Illmo-Scott City High School graduating class of 1976 will be held May 26 and 27.

The baccalaureate service will begin at 8 p.m. May 26 and will include special music by the chorus, poem readings by selected seniors and an address by the Rev. Howard K. English, pastor of First Baptitst Church in Scott City. The invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. Don Kuehle, pastor of Broadway United Methodist Church in Scott City.

Commencement exercises will be held at 8 p.m. May 27. The special music will be presented by the chorus and band. Both the invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. Tom Allen, pastor of the St. Joseph Catholic Church in Scott City.

This year's graduation addresses will be presented by the valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class.

Paul Strong, the class sponsor, will make remarks concerning the class, and Brian Rohr, the social studies department advisor, will give a short graduation address.

Supt. J. A. Holmes will make the presentation of the graduating class and board president Earl Cotner will present the diplomas.

The high school counselor, David Stader, will present the scholarships, and Bill Heckert, high school principal, will present the various awards, including awards for the highest-ranking seniors.

5 receive minor injuries in accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in two area traffic accidents Thursday, the highway patrol announced today.

A two-vehicle accident at 3:35 p.m. on Highway 142 nine miles south of Poplar Bluff resulted in minor injuries to the driver of a westbound car, Robert Matterson Matz, 19, of Poplar Bluff, and two passengers, Ronald Yeley, 19, of Qulin and Hellen Kingery, 15, of Poplar Bluff.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when a motor crane driven west by Louis Bill Brown, 39, of made a left turn into the path of the Matz car.

The injury victims were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A one- vehicle accident at 9:25 p.m. on Route A five miles east of Wardell resulted in minor injuries to Steven Lee Camp, 17, and his sister, Robin Lynn Camp, 13, of Pascola.

The accident occurred when Camp lost control of a westbound pickup truck on wet pavement and the vehicle overturned.

The accident report did not indicate whether the youths received medical treatment or not.

Reports theft

Scott County Court prepares park grant

BENTON— The Scott County Court, prepared an application Thursday for a 50 per cent grant to help build a county park in the area of the landfill near Morley.

The park, which is to cover 45 acres and includes a lake, is expected to cost nearly $200,000, with the county paying half the bill and the Land and Water Conservation Fund, administered by the State Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation, paying the hother half.

According to a Bootheel Regional Planning Commission official, who is helping the county apply for the funds, this is the third time the funding has been applied for, and since allocations are made on a priority basis, the county could get all, part or none of the requested funds. If funds are allotted to the county for the park project, it would be this time next year before they would be available to the county.

payer's money to improve land for an individual who will get the profit as the city goes in debt."

However, Thursday night Smith said, "I was under the impression you would run the water." He said it would benefit the city, because it would provide more homes from which the city could collect more taxes.

Alderman Sonny McRoy seemed to like the idea, saying, 'If we can help them, let's help them."

He said he knew little about it, however, so he and the other freshman council member, Larry Lancaster, members of the water committee, are to discuss the matter with Smith.

Lancaster suggested in another matter that the city could save money by buying oil in bulk and letting a city employe do routine maintenance on city vehicles.

His suggestion was made after comparing a bill for a case of oil at an average cost of 53 cents perr quart with oil used when the city had it changed when it cost over twice as much at $1.25 per quart.

It was suggested in turn that it was safer to let a professional do the job, even if it cost more. If a city employe makes a mistake, all the city can do is fire him, it was pointed out. Besides, there is no place to work on city vehicles, a spokesman said.

In other action the council approved a replat of a part of a block in the northwest part of town prepared by Larry Joe Elliott, a surveyor.

He said the replat now fits the deed descriptions of property in the area and was approved by the property owners.

June 3 and 4 were set as cleanup days for large items with the section of the city east of Prairie Street to be taken care of June 3 and the west part of the city on June 4. Everything to be hauled away should be on the street by 8 a.m.

In response to a complaint about trash behind don's supermarket, the council found an ordinance forbidding it and decided to contact the owner early next week.

Fine for violating the ordinance is not less than $5 and not more than $25.

assessment.

"I hope to be able to improve communication between the assessor and the people," Jackson added.

The candidate said he is running because he believes the office of assessor should not be a lifetime career and added that he will consider the job a public service as much as a livelihood.

He pointed out that the incumbent assessor has held the job for 36 years and that the incumbent's father held the job for at least eight years during the 1920's and 1930's.

"I think that is long enough for a county job to be in the hands of one family," Jackson said. "If we expect young people to be interested in government, this should not be allowed to happen. There have to be changes."

Noting that the Constitution limits the President to two terms and that most civic clubs change officers each year, Jackson said it has been proven that it is not healthy to allow anyone to remain in office for too many years.

The candidate expressed that he hopes to explain his position on the office of assessor to every voter, either in person or through the media, during the course of his campaign.

Fourth star is presented to New Madrid

NEW MADRID — The fourth star in the Missouri Community Betterment Five-Star Program has been awarded to the city in the category of transportation, according to information received by the Chamber of Commerce from Marty Stangl of the MCB office in Jefferson City.

Mrs. Dot Halstead, Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, said the city qualified for the star by meeting standards required in street paving and curbing improvements, street and air markings and certain other criteria.

Stars awarded earlier to New Madrid were in the areas of education, community planning and utilities.

The remaining category for the city to achieve is community services. Most of the standards have already been met, Mrs. Halstead said, with the exception of recreation which requires a public swimming pool.

Achieving five-star status in the MCB program has proven to be a tremendous asset to communities in attracting new and expanding industries, Mrs. Halstead added.

Mr. Charles L. Blanton, III
The Daily Standard

Dear Charlie:

I recently had reason to look into your morgue for an old article concerning Judge Marshall Craig. I know that your system is far better than it used to be, but it's still quite difficult to operate for a neophyte like me.

Fortunately, one of your employees that day, Jill Corti was present, and her patience, help and understanding was clearly above and beyond the call of duty. She was courteous, efficient and extremely helpful.

I just thought I would drop you a line to let you know that Jill Corti is certainly an asset to your organization.

Yours very truly

Dear Tony:

Wanted to drop you a line and tell you how much both the Sikeston Board of REALTORS and the Semo Shrine Club appreciate the excellent job you and the Standard have done in publishing their articles. It's a personal pleasure, being able to work with people, such as yourself, who make certain that note worthy pictures and articles reach the general public.

Tony, I have enjoyed working with you in my public relations capacity for the above two organizations and sincerely hope we can keep the relationship intact.

Very truly yours,
H. Lee Stallings

Wachter fashions two-hitter

By BILL HARRISON

CHAFFEE — Scott Wachter pitched the Chaffee Red Devils past the Scott City Rams 4-0 here Thursday afternoon in the finals of the District Twelve Class A Baseball Tournament. Wachter will leave Friday for a trip to Liberty to participate in the Class A State Track Meet at William Jewell College Friday and Saturday. Steve Hanschen, catcher for the ISC Rams will be participating in the same meet.

Wachter had his fastball going for him against the Rams and gave up only two singles while fanning eight in the seven inning game. His only real trouble came in the top of the first inning when the leadoff batter for the Rams fanned but the catcher missed the ball and made a wide throw to first. The second batter draw a walk. The next batter sacrificed the runners to second and third but Steve Hanschen tapped a harmless grounder back to Wachter and Gary Springs fanned to end the threat.

Rams' starter Gary Springs ran into trouble in the bottom half of the first and Chaffee scored a single run. Chaffee kept the Rams in hot water the rest of the game although scoring only four runs.

Springs didn't have his control from the start and pitched only one and a third innings. Shortstop Lindy Duncan led off the bottom of the first with a walk. After an out he stole second base. Neil Stubbs singled too sharply to left for Duncan to score. The next batter fanned but Springs made a wild pitch and Duncan raced home to give the Red Devils a 1-0 lead after one inning.

Springs ran into trouble again in the bottom of the second and Chaffee scored two more runs. Ray Campbell came in to relieve the starter in the second and retired the side.

Wachter settled down after the first inning and held the Rams at bay. Campbell loaded the bases in the bottom of the third with only one out but promptly fanned the last two batters to get out of trouble.

The Red Devils scored their fourth run in the bottom of the fourth. Lindy Duncan collected his second single. A couple of walks by Campbell loaded the bases again with no body out. A strikeout and pickoff play at first helped Scott City's cause tremendously but Don Keefer hit a ground rule double over the centerfield fense to send in Duncan.

The Rams were defeated by the Red Devils in the District tournament last year as Chaffee went on to capture the state title.

Chaffee will host the winner of the Lilbourn- Bernie game to be played Friday if the weather permits. The District Eleven game was postponed Thursday.

Fast track boosts Bold Forbes' hopes

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's no secret to anybody that my horse is one of the fastest in America," says trainer Laz Barrera of Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, who will try to outrun five other 3-year-olds Saturday in the Preakness.

And that speed was much in evidence at Pimlico Thursday.

While Derby runnerup Honest Pleasure walked, Bold Forbes sizzled a half-mile in 45 2-5.

"He looks better now than he did in the Derby," said Barrera, who added that another horse on the track and the condition of the track were factors in the swift time.

"He saw the other horse in front of him and he just took off," said Barrera. "This track is lightning fast. You can hear a horse's feet on the ground. It's a bit too fast. It's like a concrete road."

But the trainer also saw a plus in the fast racing surface — "On a fast track, the speed will stay there. The come-frombehind horses won't have much of a chance."

One of those come-from-behind horses is Life's Hope, who Barrera trains for Louis Wolfson. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

Life's Hope, who won the Illinois Derby, also turned in a good work, going a half in 47 flat.

"This horse never works fast," said Barrera. "He usually goes 49 and change.

"He's got all the right to run him," the trainer said of Wolfson's decision to send Life's Hope in the 1 3-16-mile, $150,-000-added Preakness.

The entry was made the early even-money favorite, with Honest Pleasure next at 6-5. Life's Hope, ridden by Sandy Hawley, and Bold Forbes, ridden by AngelCordero Jr., will start from the Nos. 3 and 4 posts, respectively, while Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure will leave from the outside post under Braulio Baeza.

The longshots in the field are Eugne C. Cashman's Elocutionist, No. 5, John L. Lively; Max Gluck's Play The Red, No. 1, Jean Cruguet, and Entremont's Cojak, No. 2, Anthony Agnello.

With six starters, each carrying 126 pounds, the 101st Preakness will be worth $182,200, with $129,700 to the winner. Post time is 5:40 p.m. EDT and television coverage by CBS is from 5-6 p.m.

It also was announced that Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure are using Butazolidin, an analgesic which is legal in Maryland, while the other four starts will race without medication.

Bold Forbes has been racing for some time with a cracked right hind heel and used the medication in the Kentucky Derby. No reason was given why Honest Pleasure was being given Butazolidin, and trainer LeRoy Jolley was in New York Thursday.

She was a member of Beech Grove Church near Bloomfield.

Survivors include: two daughters, Margaret Aslin of Bloomfield Route Three and Wilma Dunnegan of Bloomfield Route One; one foster son, Luther McCain of Pontiac, Mich.; one sister, Mrs. Riley Wilson of Bloomfield; and two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The body will be moved to Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield, where arrangements are incomplete.

5 receive minor injuries in accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in two area traffic accidents Thursday, the highway patrol announced today.

A two-vehicle accident at 3:35 p.m. on Highway 142 nine miles south of Poplar Bluff resulted in minor injuries to the driver of a westbound car, Robert Matterson Matz, 19, of Poplar Bluff, and two passengers, Ronald Yeley, 19, of Qulin and Hellen Kingery, 15, of Poplar Bluff.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when a motor crane driven west by Louis Bill Brown, 39, of made a left turn into the path of the Matz car.

The injury victims were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A one- vehicle accident at 9:25 p.m. on Route A five miles east of Wardell resulted in minor injuries to Steven Lee Camp, 17, and his sister, Robin Lynn Camp, 13, of Pascola.

The accident occurred when Camp lost control of a westbound pickup truck on wet pavement and the vehicle overturned.

The accident report did not indicate whether the youths received medical treatment or not.

Reports theft

Larry Richards of Matthews Route One, reported the theft of a citizens band radio from his pickup truck between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 3 a.m. Thursday while the truck was parked in Sikeston.

The radio was valued at $139, according to police.

Scott County Court prepares park grant

BENTON— The Scott County Court, prepared an application Thursday for a 50 per cent grant to help build a county park in the area of the landfill near Morley.

The park, which is to cover 45 acres and includes a lake, is expected to cost nearly $200,000, with the county paying half the bill and the Land and Water Conservation Fund, administered by the State Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation, paying the hother half.

According to a Bootheel Regional Planning Commission official, who is helping the county apply for the funds, this is the third time the funding has been applied for, and since allocations are made on a priority basis, the county could get all, part or none of the requested funds. If funds are allotted to the county for the park project, it would be this time next year before they would be available to the county.

payer's money to improve land for an individual who will get the profit as the city goes in debt."

However, Thursday night Smith said, "I was under the impression you would run the water." He said it would benefit the city, because it would provide more homes from which the city could collect more taxes.

Alderman Sonny McRoy seemed to like the idea, saying, 'If we can help them, let's help them."

He said he knew little about it, however, so he and the other freshman council member, Larry Lancaster, members of the water committee, are to discuss the matter with Smith.

Lancaster suggested in another matter that the city could save money by buying oil in bulk and letting a city employe do routine maintenance on city vehicles.

His suggestion was made after comparing a bill for a case of oil at an average cost of 53 cents perr quart with oil used when the city had it changed when it cost over twice as much at $1.25 per quart.

It was suggested in turn that it was safer to let a professional do the job, even if it cost more. If a city employe makes a mistake, all the city can do is fire him, it was pointed out. Besides, there is no place to work on city vehicles, a spokesman said.

He said the replat now fits the deed descriptions of property in the area and was approved by the property owners.

June 3 and 4 were set as cleanup days for large items with the section of the city east of Prairie Street to be taken care of June 3 and the west part of the city on June 4. Everything to be hauled away should be on the street by 8 a.m.

In response to a complaint about trash behind don's supermarket, the council found an ordinance forbidding it and decided to contact the owner early next week.

Fine for violating the ordinance is not less than $5 and not more than $25.

assessment.

"I hope to be able to improve communication between the assessor and the people," Jackson added.

The candidate said he is running because he believes the office of assessor should not be a lifetime career and added that he will consider the job a public service as much as a livelihood.

He pointed out that the incumbent assessor has held the job for 36 years and that the incumbent's father held the job for at least eight years during the 1920's and 1930's.

"I think that is long enough for a county job to be in the hands of one family," Jackson said. "If we expect young people to be interested in government, this should not be allowed to happen. There have to be changes."

Noting that the Constitution limits the President to two terms and that most civic clubs change officers each year, Jackson said it has been proven that it is not healthy to allow anyone to remain in office for too many years.

The candidate expressed that he hopes to explain his position on the office of assessor to every voter, either in person or through the media, during the course of his campaign.

Fourth star is presented to New Madrid

NEW MADRID — The fourth star in the Missouri Community Betterment Five-Star Program has been awarded to the city in the category of transportation, according to information received by the Chamber of Commerce from Marty Stangl of the MCB office in Jefferson City.

Mrs. Dot Halstead, Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, said the city qualified for the star by meeting standards required in street paving and curbing improvements, street and air markings and certain other criteria.

Stars awarded earlier to New Madrid were in the areas of education, community planning and utilities.

The remaining category for the city to achieve is community services. Most of the standards have already been met, Mrs. Halstead said, with the exception of recreation which requires a public swimming pool.

Achieving five-star status in the MCB program has proven to be a tremendous asset to communities in attracting new and expanding industries, Mrs. Halstead added.

Rally to beat Denver

Nets are ABA champions

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets were struggling.

They had fallen 22 points behind the Denver Nuggets with 5:07 remaining in the third quarter of the sixth game of their American Basketball Association championship series.

Their shooting was off-target. Their offense was disorganized. The Nuggets, particularly David Thompson and Dan Issel, were destroying their defense.v

The situation appeared hopeless ... and it seemed a seventh and deciding game would have to be played in Denver Sunday.

Then, suddenly, the game turned.

The Nets, the best defensive team in the league throughout the regular season, began playing the defense that had distinguished them during that time. And because of it, their offense prospered.

They forced the Nuggets into costly mistakes, turnovers that resulted in Nets points or missed shots.

They began to close the gap. And they were gathering momentum.

The Nuggets, in the championship series for the first time, were coming apart at the seams.

By the end of the third quarter, Denver's lead was down to 92-78. And one period later, the Nets had completed their incredible surge from behind, beating the shocked and frustrated Nuggets 112-106 Thursday night.

The victory gave the Nets the series 4-2 and was their second championship in three years.

"You can only make a comeback like that when you have the guys who can play pressure defense," said New York Coach Kevin Loughery, his clothes dripping with champagne. "And we had them."

Loughery, who also led the Nets to their first league championship in 1974 in his rookie season as coach, ordered the Nets into a full-court press in the opening minute of the fourth quarter with Denver ahead 92-79. It was the turning point of the game.

For the entire last quarter, the Nuggets made only four field goals, two of them layups, after having connected for a total of 38 in the first three periods. Thompson, who had bombed the Nets for 38 points during the opening three quarters, was held to four foul shots in the final period.

Meanwhile, John Williamson got the Nets offense in high gear. He fired in 11 straight New York points, cutting the Nuggets' lead to 96-92 with just over eight minutes remaining.

Then, with about four minutes left, and the Nuggets still ahead 104-97, New York finally charged ahead for the first time since the opening period. Eleven straight points put the Nets in front 108-104 with 1:46 to go, and Denver couldn't recover.

Williamson, with 16 points in the fourth quarter, finished with 28. Julius Erving, the series' Most-Valuable Player, scored 31, including 18 in the third period, and wound up with two championship records — 226 total points for a 37.7 average. He also had a game-high 19 rebounds.

Brian Taylor contributed 24 points and Jim Eakins, playng in place of starting center Kim Hughes, who was on crutches after suffering a severe sprain and a muscle tear in his left ankle during Game Five, had 15 points and 13 rebounds.

Thompson finished with 42 for Denver and Issel scored 30. But they didn't get enough help.

"I don't ever expect to see this team give up," said the joyful Loughery. "They have too much confidence in themselves to do that."

"You can't tell me there's a more courageous club than the Nets," said Larry Brown, Denver's disappointed coach. "You can't tell me there's a greater player than Julius Erving.

"I still think I have a great club," he continued. "We just let things get away from us in this series. It's hard for me to realize that we blew a 22-point lead and the chance to go back home and win it all. We just lost our poise."

While Brown found it difficult to believe, the sellout crowd of 15,934 at the Nassau Coliseum didn't. The fans went wild even before the game was over — and caused the last three seconds not to be played.

After Rich Jones made his only field goal of the game after 11 misses, a layup with three seconds left, giving the Nets their 112-106 lead, the enthusiastic, hysterical fans poured onto the court, surrounding their heroes.

Officials and police required several minutes to clear the playing area, but by that time, it was decided not to officially complete the game.

It really didn't matter, the Nets were champs.

They had done it with a team that was given little chance at the start of the season. They had undergone a big personnel shake-up since last season, when they were upset by the Spirits of St. Louis in the opening round of the playoffs and had become ex-champions after winning the title in 1974.

And it did not appear the changes were that beneficial.

"Coming out on top was much tougher this year because no one outside our organization expected it," said Loughery. "Before the season, Denver, San Antonio, Kentucky and even St. Louis were picked to finish ahead of us.

"But when we went to training camp on Sept. 15, we had only one goal in mind — and that was to win the championship.

"And we did it ..."

Then, Loughery added: "We've got the best player I've ever seen (Erving). But the thing people forget is that he is surrounded by some great players."

Tigers, OU meet tonight

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— The third time will prove a charm for either Oklahoma or Missouri tonight as the Sooners and Tigers square off in the finals of the Big Eight baseball tournament at Oklahoma City's All-Sports Stadium.

The two teams have split in two previous tourney matches, the Tigers' upending the Sooners in the opening round last Saturday, 4-2, then suffering an 8-0 loss to the perennial Big Eight powerhouse on Tuesday.

Oklahoma earned its berth in the finals Thurday night, getting superb relief hurling from George Frazier in a 9-4 triumph over Iowa State, the Cinderella team of the Big Eight's first post-season tourney. The game was to have been played Wednesday but was delayed by rain.

Missouri, meanwhile, has had two days off, gaining a bye to the finals by way of a draw.

A pair of southpaws are expected to be on the mound for the 7:30 p.m. (CDT) championship game—Gary Brackeen for Oklahoma and Rob Pietroburgo for Missouri.

Pietroburgo got the win, with strong relief help from Jeff Cornell, in the two teams' first meeting of the tourney. Brackeen turned in a strong performance in the Sooners' second round win over Nebraska.

It's a safe bet that Sooner coach Enos Semore would have liked to have saved Frazier for a possible relief role against the Tigers, but he was pressed into duty against Iowa State when Sooner ace Marty Kunkler walked five batters in the third inning, allowing the Cyclones to tie it at 2-2.

Frazier gave up two hits and two runs in the fourth, but then settled down and allowed only two more hits and struck out eighth the rest of the way.

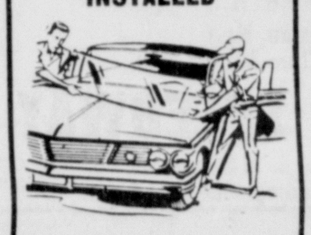

Frazier, who improved his record to 6-2, also pitched brilliantly in relief of Kunkler in the Sooners' earlier loss to the Tigers.

Against Iowa State, Oklahoma got single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to tie it at 4-4, then scored three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth to make it a rout.

Second baseman Keith Drumright led the Sooner attack with three singles, scoring three runs. Gary Krug and Kelly Snider had two hits and two RBI's and Greg Stitzingeer contributed two hits, including a 400-foot triple off the right center field wall.

The Sooners stole seven bases, with Drumright and Terry Bogener each swiping a pair.

Montreal wins 3-2; now 1 game away from Stanley Cup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was a triumph of inconsistencies. Using at right wing a Venezuelan-born defenseman who hadn't played forward since he was 16 years old; getting two goals from a power play that had been useless in the last two games, and entering the contest with a 2½-year string of winless games here, the Montreal Canadiens still managed to defeat the Philadelphia Flyers in Game Three of the National Hockey League's final playoffs.

The game-winning goal by Montreal defenseman Pierre Bouchard, a low 50-foot slap shot, was screened from the view of Flyers goalie Wayne Stephenson by Rick Chartraw — a 21-year-old Caracas native who was making his first playoff appearance.

Chartraw, who played only 16 regular season games for the Canadiens and last played forward during a junior tournament in 1971, was forced into action when Yvon Lambert suffered a leg injury. He said "I just planted myself in front and tried to make myself as big as possible so I could screen the goalie's view."

That he did. The puck skimmed through Chartraw's legs and beat Stephenson at 9:15 of the third period to break a tie, give the Canadiens a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and lift Montreal into an overwhelming 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final. A victory in Game Four Sunday would give Montreal the 18th league title of its 59-year history.

"At the end of the second period, there was that something extra when we came into the dressing room," observed Canadiens goalie Ken Dryden. "We were tied 2-2, we were ahead 2-0 in the series, and we said, "If we can win the third period, it's really going to give us a good position."

The power play came around after just 3:17 of play when a tired Steve Shutt lofted a 75-foot shot toward Stephenson so he could get off the ice. "I just wanted to get it on net and go to the bench," explained Shutt, who was surprised as everyone else when the shot dropped two feet, bounced off the little Flyers netminder and into the net.

Just over 5½ minutes later Reggie Leech scored the first of his two goals, also on the power play, to tie the game. Before the encounter, Philadelphia had scored 10 goals in 49 advantages and Montreal just six in 44.

Leach, harried by Montreal's checking line in the first two games on the Canadiens' ice, broke loose for six shots and raised his playoff-leading scoring mark to 23 points on the 18 goals and five assists. But that didn't seem to bother Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, who was more pleased to end the 2½-year hex here and pull within a triumph of the Stanley Cup.

"We never played aggressively or consistently here before," he said. "Tonight, we played more of our game. Before, when we came in here, we were just content to hang on."

"We played very hard but we were still outplayed a little," said Flyers Coach Fred Shero. "That was the difference in the game. You can never outwork Montreal; they're a great team with great pride. But we can't work any harder. If we're going to get back into this series, we'll need more breaks than the Canadiens."

SIKESTON PUBLIC SCHOOL INVITES YOU TO THE

OPEN HOUSE

108 Willow Lane 1 block south of the Junior High

SATURDAY MAY 15 - 10 am to 5 pm
SUNDAY MAY 16 - 1 pm to 5 pm

The Sikeston Area Vocational School proudly displays a home consturcted by the students enrolled in Vocational Building Trades. These students, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Land, are to be commended for the fine work done in making this brick veneer home a reality.

The program, taught as a two year course, begins with students entering the junior year of high school. In addition to gaining on the job experience through the actual construction of a home, many hours are spent in the classroom studying building details.

1800 square feet plus 776 square foot garage , living room, dining room combination, kitchen, three bedrooms, 2 ½ baths, family room with wood burning fireplace. These are but a few of the quality features found in this student built home. Your support at the open house is greatly appreciated.

This home was built by Vocation Trading School Students and will be sold by sealed bids to be opened at the next school board meeting. All bids must be submitted to Charles Simpson or High School Superintendent Office, Ingram & Virginia Street.

Littell still riding high for Royals

The progress of Kansas City Royals pitcher Mark Littell continues to be the big story this week in the Daily Standard's regular report on Southeast Missouri's professional baseball players.

Littell picked up his first victory in relief last Sunday at Baltimore against the Orioles, working four and two-thirds innings as the Royals won 7-4. He also got his second save Tuesday night against Minnesota. The Gideon native has not allowed an earned run in fifteen and two-thirds innings of work.

Puxico's Galen McSpadden worked only two innings this week for the San Diego Padres' Hawaii team in the Pacific Coast League. McSpadden's ERA in four appearances is 5.21.

Gary Blaylock of Malden went two-for-eight this week and saw his batting average dip below the .300 mark for the first time, Blaylock is hitting .293 for the Royals Jacksonville club in the AA Southern League with two homers and twelve RBI's.

Steve Coulson of Fisk was four-for-seventeen for the West Haven Yanks in the AA Eastern League this week, raising his average slightly to .229. Coulsen leads the league in triples with two and has driven in ten runs.

Spirits move may be final by next week

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Final agreement for moving the American Basketball Association Spirits of St. Louis to Salt Lake could come early next week, Salt Lake businessman Earl D. Walters said after two days of meetings with Spirits officials.

Walters said meetings Wednesday and Thursday at a Salt Lake motel with Spirits owners Ozzie and Daniel Silna and club President Harry Weltman, a part owner, totaled about 20 hours.

Walters, reached at his home after the meeting, said, "We got things pretty well resolved. I think we will be able to finalize probably by the first of next week."

He declined to specify what was resolved, and, asked what remained to be resolved, he said: "Negotiations, drafting papers, normal things."

Walters said last week there was "a monkey wrench in the negotiations." Asked Thursday night about the monkey wrench, he said it was "pretty well eliminated."

He would not say what the monkey wrench was other than that it was "a misunderstanding, a disagreement."

Walters said the Spirits' officials flew back to St. Louis after the meeting.

ABA trustees last week approved the move, pending final agreements between the parties.

Walters earlier said the agreement to move the Spirits to Salt Lake was conditional on a guarantee of season ticket sales—reported to be about 3,000—and at least $600,000 local money.

Walters has said more than that amount of money was raised.

Wachter fashions two-hitter

By BILL HARRISON

CHAFFEE — Scott Wachter pitched the Chaffee Red Devils past the Scott City Rams 4-0 here Thursday afternoon in the finals of the District Twelve Class A Baseball Tournament. Wachter will leave Friday for a trip to Liberty to participate in the Class A State Track Meet at William Jewell College Friday and Saturday. Steve Hanschen, catcher for the ISC Rams will be participating in the same meet.

Wachter had his fastball going for him against the Rams and gave up only two singles while fanning eight in the seven inning game. His only real trouble came in the top of the first inning when the leadoff batter for the Rams fanned but the catcher missed the ball and made a wide throw to first. The second batter draw a walk. The next batter sacrificed the runners to second and third but Steve Hanschen tapped a harmless grounder back to Wachter and Gary Springs fanned to end the threat.

Rams' starter Gary Springs ran into trouble in the bottom half of the first and Chaffee scored a single run. Chaffee kept the Rams in hot water the rest of the game although scoring only four runs.

Springs didn't have his control from the start and pitched only one and a third innings. Shortstop Lindy Duncan led off the bottom of the first with a walk. After an out he stole second base. Neil Stubbs singled too sharply to left for Duncan to score. The next batter fanned but Springs made a wild pitch and Duncan raced home to give the Red Devils a 1-0 lead after one inning.

Springs ran into trouble again in the bottom of the second and Chaffee scored two more runs. Ray Campbell came in to relieve the starter in the second and retired the side.

Wachter settled down after the first inning and held the Rams at bay. Campbell loaded the bases in the bottom of the third with only one out but promptly fanned the last two batters to get out of trouble.

The Red Devils scored their fourth run in the bottom of the fourth. Lindy Duncan collected his second single. A couple of walks by Campbell loaded the bases again with no body out. A strikeout and pickoff play at first helped Scott City's cause tremendously but Don Keefer hit a ground rule double over the centerfield fense to send in Duncan.

The Rams were defeated by the Red Devils in the District tournament last year as Chaffee went on to capture the state title.

Chaffee will host the winner of the Lilbourn- Bernie game to be played Friday if the weather permits. The District Eleven game was postponed Thursday.

Fast track boosts Bold Forbes' hopes

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's no secret to anybody that my horse is one of the fastest in America," says trainer Laz Barrera of Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, who will try to outrun five other 3-year-olds Saturday in the Preakness.

And that speed was much in evidence at Pimlico Thursday.

While Derby runnerup Honest Pleasure walked, Bold Forbes sizzled a half-mile in 45 2-5.

"He looks better now than he did in the Derby," said Barrera, who added that another horse on the track and the condition of the track were factors in the swift time.

"He saw the other horse in front of him and he just took off," said Barrera. "This track is lightning fast. You can hear a horse's feet on the ground. It's a bit too fast. It's like a concrete road."

But the trainer also saw a plus in the fast racing surface — "On a fast track, the speed will stay there. The come-frombehind horses won't have much of a chance."

One of those come-from-behind horses is Life's Hope, who Barrera trains for Louis Wolfson. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

Life's Hope, who won the Illinois Derby, also turned in a good work, going a half in 47 flat.

"This horse never works fast," said Barrera. "He usually goes 49 and change.

"He's got all the right to run him," the trainer said of Wolfson's decision to send Life's Hope in the 1 3-16-mile, $150,-000-added Preakness.

The entry was made the early even-money favorite, with Honest Pleasure next at 6-5. Life's Hope, ridden by Sandy Hawley, and Bold Forbes, ridden by AngelCordero Jr., will start from the Nos. 3 and 4 posts, respectively, while Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure will leave from the outside post under Braulio Baeza.

The longshots in the field are Eugne C. Cashman's Elocutionist, No. 5, John L. Lively; Max Gluck's Play The Red, No. 1, Jean Cruguet, and Entremont's Cojak, No. 2, Anthony Agnello.

With six starters, each carrying 126 pounds, the 101st Preakness will be worth $182,200, with $129,700 to the winner. Post time is 5:40 p.m. EDT and television coverage by CBS is from 5-6 p.m.

It also was announced that Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure are using Butazolidin, an analgesic which is legal in Maryland, while the other four starts will race without medication.

Bold Forbes has been racing for some time with a cracked right hind heel and used the medication in the Kentucky Derby. No reason was given why Honest Pleasure was being given Butazolidin, and trainer LeRoy Jolley was in New York Thursday.

How old are you, Mr. Alston? 65

Walter Alston is 65 years old. He has managed the Los Angeles Dodgers for 22 years, since back in 1954 when they were the Brooklyn Dodgers. He has the longest reign of any present-day manager in baseball. He has guided the Dodgers to six National League pennants and four World Series victories.

Alston is a quiet, but strong leader who is highly respected by his players. He played and managed in the minor leagues before joining the Dodgers. He grew up in Darrton, Ohio. He taught school for 14 years, but has done his greatest teaching on the baseball field.

Rally to beat Denver

Nets are ABA champions

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets were struggling.

They had fallen 22 points behind the Denver Nuggets with 5:07 remaining in the third quarter of the sixth game of their American Basketball Association championship series.

Their shooting was off-target. Their offense was disorganized. The Nuggets, particularly David Thompson and Dan Issel, were destroying their defense.v

The situation appeared hopeless ... and it seemed a seventh and deciding game would have to be played in Denver Sunday.

Then, suddenly, the game turned.

The Nets, the best defensive team in the league throughout the regular season, began playing the defense that had distinguished them during that time. And because of it, their offense prospered.

They forced the Nuggets into costly mistakes, turnovers that resulted in Nets points or missed shots.

They began to close the gap. And they were gathering momentum.

The Nuggets, in the championship series for the first time, were coming apart at the seams.

By the end of the third quarter, Denver's lead was down to 92-78. And one period later, the Nets had completed their incredible surge from behind, beating the shocked and frustrated Nuggets 112-106 Thursday night.

The victory gave the Nets the series 4-2 and was their second championship in three years.

"You can only make a comeback like that when you have the guys who can play pressure defense," said New York Coach Kevin Loughery, his clothes dripping with champagne. "And we had them."

Loughery, who also led the Nets to their first league championship in 1974 in his rookie season as coach, ordered the Nets into a full-court press in the opening minute of the fourth quarter with Denver ahead 92-79. It was the turning point of the game.

For the entire last quarter, the Nuggets made only four field goals, two of them layups, after having connected for a total of 38 in the first three periods. Thompson, who had bombed the Nets for 38 points during the opening three quarters, was held to four foul shots in the final period.

Meanwhile, John Williamson got the Nets offense in high gear. He fired in 11 straight New York points, cutting the Nuggets' lead to 96-92 with just over eight minutes remaining.

Then, with about four minutes left, and the Nuggets still ahead 104-97, New York finally charged ahead for the first time since the opening period. Eleven straight points put the Nets in front 108-104 with 1:46 to go, and Denver couldn't recover.

Williamson, with 16 points in the fourth quarter, finished with 28. Julius Erving, the series' Most-Valuable Player, scored 31, including 18 in the third period, and wound up with two championship records — 226 total points for a 37.7 average. He also had a game-high 19 rebounds.

Brian Taylor contributed 24 points and Jim Eakins, playng in place of starting center Kim Hughes, who was on crutches after suffering a severe sprain and a muscle tear in his left ankle during Game Five, had 15 points and 13 rebounds.

Thompson finished with 42 for Denver and Issel scored 30. But they didn't get enough help.

"I don't ever expect to see this team give up," said the joyful Loughery. "They have too much confidence in themselves to do that."

"You can't tell me there's a more courageous club than the Nets," said Larry Brown, Denver's disappointed coach. "You can't tell me there's a greater player than Julius Erving.

"I still think I have a great club," he continued. "We just let things get away from us in this series. It's hard for me to realize that we blew a 22-point lead and the chance to go back home and win it all. We just lost our poise."

While Brown found it difficult to believe, the sellout crowd of 15,934 at the Nassau Coliseum didn't. The fans went wild even before the game was over — and caused the last three seconds not to be played.

After Rich Jones made his only field goal of the game after 11 misses, a layup with three seconds left, giving the Nets their 112-106 lead, the enthusiastic, hysterical fans poured onto the court, surrounding their heroes.

Officials and police required several minutes to clear the playing area, but by that time, it was decided not to officially complete the game.

It really didn't matter, the Nets were champs.

They had done it with a team that was given little chance at the start of the season. They had undergone a big personnel shake-up since last season, when they were upset by the Spirits of St. Louis in the opening round of the playoffs and had become ex-champions after winning the title in 1974.

And it did not appear the changes were that beneficial.

"Coming out on top was much tougher this year because no one outside our organization expected it," said Loughery. "Before the season, Denver, San Antonio, Kentucky and even St. Louis were picked to finish ahead of us.

"But when we went to training camp on Sept. 15, we had only one goal in mind — and that was to win the championship.

"And we did it ..."

Then, Loughery added: "We've got the best player I've ever seen (Erving). But the thing people forget is that he is surrounded by some great players."

Tigers, OU meet tonight

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— The third time will prove a charm for either Oklahoma or Missouri tonight as the Sooners and Tigers square off in the finals of the Big Eight baseball tournament at Oklahoma City's All-Sports Stadium.

The two teams have split in two previous tourney matches, the Tigers' upending the Sooners in the opening round last Saturday, 4-2, then suffering an 8-0 loss to the perennial Big Eight powerhouse on Tuesday.

Oklahoma earned its berth in the finals Thurday night, getting superb relief hurling from George Frazier in a 9-4 triumph over Iowa State, the Cinderella team of the Big Eight's first post-season tourney. The game was to have been played Wednesday but was delayed by rain.

Missouri, meanwhile, has had two days off, gaining a bye to the finals by way of a draw.

A pair of southpaws are expected to be on the mound for the 7:30 p.m. (CDT) championship game—Gary Brackeen for Oklahoma and Rob Pietroburgo for Missouri.

Pietroburgo got the win, with strong relief help from Jeff Cornell, in the two teams' first meeting of the tourney. Brackeen turned in a strong performance in the Sooners' second round win over Nebraska.

It's a safe bet that Sooner coach Enos Semore would have liked to have saved Frazier for a possible relief role against the Tigers, but he was pressed into duty against Iowa State when Sooner ace Marty Kunkler walked five batters in the third inning, allowing the Cyclones to tie it at 2-2.

Frazier gave up two hits and two runs in the fourth, but then settled down and allowed only two more hits and struck out eighth the rest of the way.

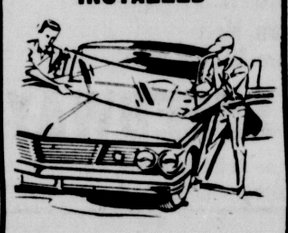

Frazier, who improved his record to 6-2, also pitched brilliantly in relief of Kunkler in the Sooners' earlier loss to the Tigers.

Against Iowa State, Oklahoma got single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to tie it at 4-4, then scored three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth to make it a rout.

Second baseman Keith Drumright led the Sooner attack with three singles, scoring three runs. Gary Krug and Kelly Snider had two hits and two RBI's and Greg Stitzingeer contributed two hits, including a 400-foot triple off the right center field wall.

The Sooners stole seven bases, with Drumright and Terry Bogener each swiping a pair.

Montreal wins 3-2; now 1 game away from Stanley Cup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was a triumph of inconsistencies. Using at right wing a Venezuelan-born defenseman who hadn't played forward since he was 16 years old; getting two goals from a power play that had been useless in the last two games, and entering the contest with a 2½-year string of winless games here, the Montreal Canadiens still managed to defeat the Philadelphia Flyers in Game Three of the National Hockey League's final playoffs.

The game-winning goal by Montreal defenseman Pierre Bouchard, a low 50-foot slap shot, was screened from the view of Flyers goalie Wayne Stephenson by Rick Chartraw — a 21-year-old Caracas native who was making his first playoff appearance.

Chartraw, who played only 16 regular season games for the Canadiens and last played forward during a junior tournament in 1971, was forced into action when Yvon Lambert suffered a leg injury. He said "I just planted myself in front and tried to make myself as big as possible so I could screen the goalie's view."

That he did. The puck skimmed through Chartraw's legs and beat Stephenson at 9:15 of the third period to break a tie, give the Canadiens a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and lift Montreal into an overwhelming 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final. A victory in Game Four Sunday would give Montreal the 18th league title of its 59-year history.

"At the end of the second period, there was that something extra when we came into the dressing room," observed Canadiens goalie Ken Dryden. "We were tied 2-2, we were ahead 2-0 in the series, and we said, "If we can win the third period, it's really going to give us a good position."

The power play came around after just 3:17 of play when a tired Steve Shutt lofted a 75-foot shot toward Stephenson so he could get off the ice. "I just wanted to get it on net and go to the bench," explained Shutt, who was surprised as everyone else when the shot dropped two feet, bounced off the little Flyers netminder and into the net.

Just over 5½ minutes later Reggie Leech scored the first of his two goals, also on the power play, to tie the game. Before the encounter, Philadelphia had scored 10 goals in 49 advantages and Montreal just six in 44.

Leach, harried by Montreal's checking line in the first two games on the Canadiens' ice, broke loose for six shots and raised his playoff-leading scoring mark to 23 points on the 18 goals and five assists. But that didn't seem to bother Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, who was more pleased to end the 2½-year hex here and pull within a triumph of the Stanley Cup.

"We never played aggressively or consistently here before," he said. "Tonight, we played more of our game. Before, when we came in here, we were just content to hang on."

"We played very hard but we were still outplayed a little," said Flyers Coach Fred Shero. "That was the difference in the game. You can never outwork Montreal; they're a great team with great pride. But we can't work any harder. If we're going to get back into this series, we'll need more breaks than the Canadiens."

SIKESTON PUBLIC SCHOOL INVITES YOU TO THE

OPEN HOUSE

108 Willow Lane 1 block south of the Junior High

SATURDAY MAY 15 - 10 am to 5 pm
SUNDAY MAY 16 - 1 pm to 5 pm

The Sikeston Area Vocational School proudly displays a home consturcted by the students enrolled in Vocational Building Trades. These students, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Land, are to be commended for the fine work done in making this brick veneer home a reality.

The program, taught as a two year course, begins with students entering the junior year of high school. In addition to gaining on the job experience through the actual construction of a home, many hours are spent in the classroom studying building details.

1800 square feet plus 776 square foot garage , living room, dining room combination, kitchen, three bedrooms, 2 ½ baths, family room with wood burning fireplace. These are but a few of the quality features found in this student built home. Your support at the open house is greatly appreciated.

This home was built by Vocation Trading School Students and will be sold by sealed bids to be opened at the next school board meeting. All bids must be submitted to Charles Simpson or High School Superintendent Office, Ingram & Virginia Street.

Littell still riding high for Royals

The progress of Kansas City Royals pitcher Mark Littell continues to be the big story this week in the Daily Standard's regular report on Southeast Missouri's professional baseball players.

Littell picked up his first victory in relief last Sunday at Baltimore against the Orioles, working four and two-thirds innings as the Royals won 7-4. He also got his second save Tuesday night against Minnesota. The Gideon native has not allowed an earned run in fifteen and two-thirds innings of work.

Puxico's Galen McSpadden worked only two innings this week for the San Diego Padres' Hawaii team in the Pacific Coast League. McSpadden's ERA in four appearances is 5.21.

Gary Blaylock of Malden went two-for-eight this week and saw his batting average dip below the .300 mark for the first time, Blaylock is hitting .293 for the Royals Jacksonville club in the AA Southern League with two homers and twelve RBI's.

Steve Coulson of Fisk was four-for-seventeen for the West Haven Yanks in the AA Eastern League this week, raising his average slightly to .229. Coulsen leads the league in triples with two and has driven in ten runs.

Spirits move may be final by next week

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Final agreement for moving the American Basketball Association Spirits of St. Louis to Salt Lake could come early next week, Salt Lake businessman Earl D. Walters said after two days of meetings with Spirits officials.

Walters said meetings Wednesday and Thursday at a Salt Lake motel with Spirits owners Ozzie and Daniel Silna and club President Harry Weltman, a part owner, totaled about 20 hours.

Walters, reached at his home after the meeting, said, "We got things pretty well resolved. I think we will be able to finalize probably by the first of next week."

He declined to specify what was resolved, and, asked what remained to be resolved, he said: "Negotiations, drafting papers, normal things."

Walters said last week there was "a monkey wrench in the negotiations." Asked Thursday night about the monkey wrench, he said it was "pretty well eliminated."

He would not say what the monkey wrench was other than that it was "a misunderstanding, a disagreement."

Walters said the Spirits' officials flew back to St. Louis after the meeting.

ABA trustees last week approved the move, pending final agreements between the parties.

Walters earlier said the agreement to move the Spirits to Salt Lake was conditional on a guarantee of season ticket sales—reported to be about 3,000—and at least $600,000 local money.

Walters has said more than that amount of money was raised.

Some time ago, a group took a poll. They went around asking people from 18 to 64 what they thought of older people over 65.

Many of the people who were asked the questions felt that senior citizens were not very active, efficient, alert or open minded.

"This is not true," says the National Council for the Aging, a group that is trying to get the public to change their usual or stereotyped way of looking at older people.

Many people over 65 are leading active, busy lives. Think about your grandparents. The chances are, they are very busy.

Bob Hope is one of the most popular entertainers of all times.

Fred Noble of Jacksonville, Florida, is working on his fifth college degree. He still has a busy law practice. Here he kicks up his heels with a group of University of Jacksonville cheerleaders.

How old are you, Mr. Alston? 65

Walter Alston is 65 years old. He has managed the Los Angeles Dodgers for 22 years, since back in 1954 when they were the Brooklyn Dodgers. He has the longest reign of any present-day manager in baseball. He has guided the Dodgers to six National League pennants and four World Series victories.

Alston is a quiet, but strong leader who is highly respected by his players. He played and managed in the minor leagues before joining the Dodgers. He grew up in Darrton, Ohio. He taught school for 14 years, but has done his greatest teaching on the baseball field.

As a young boy, Bud liked to sit around a lot. He just was not the active type. What type of older person will he probably turn out to be?

As a young girl, Sue was always busy, busy, busy. She always had something going. What type of older person will she probably grow up to be?

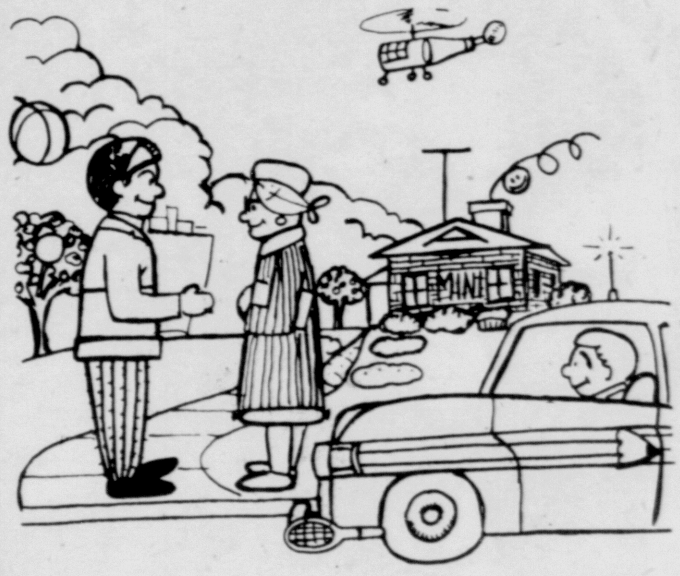

What people are like in their youth has a lot to do with the type person they will be in their old age.

Today in U.S. history

Today in History
By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 14, the 135th day of 1976. There are 231 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1787, a convention met in Philadelphia to draw up the U.S. Constitution.

On this date:

In 1643, Louis XIV became King of France.

In 1907, Anna Jarvis arranged for a special church service in Philadelphia to honor mothers — an idea that spread and became Mother's Day.

In 1940, German bombers razed much of the Dutch city of Rotterdam in World War II.

In 1942, also in the Second World War, the U.S. Congress established the WAACs — the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps.

In 1948, Britain ended its rule in Palestine, and the independent state of Israel was proclaimed.

In 1965, a section of an English meadow at Runnymede, where the Magna Carta was accepted by King John, was dedicated to the late President John Kennedy.

Ten years ago: British seamen began leaving their ships in a nationwide strike.

Five years ago: President Anwar Sadat emerged as the top leader in Egypt, and thousands rallied in city streets to demonstrate support.

One year ago: the White House announced that U.S. Marines had recaptured by force the American ship Mayaguez, which had been seized by Cambodians, and that U.S. planes had destroyed three Cambodian naval vessels.

Today's birthday: Opera singer Patrice Munsel is 51 years old.

Thought for today: There is no education like adversity — Disraeli, British Prime Minister, 1804-1881.

Christian Church assembly begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Some 600 people will meet today through Sunday at the Ramada Inn for the 137th regional assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Missouri.

Principal speaker at the assembly will be Dr. Kenneth L. Teegarden of Indianapolis, Ind., general minister and president of the national body of Christian Churches. The topic of Dr. Teegarden's speech will be "Heritage Revisited—An Update on Destiny."

The Rev. Warren F. Chrisman of Dallas Tex., president elect-nominee of the Christian Church in Missouri, will be installed Saturday as regional minister.

The three-day conference, designed to give Christian Church ministers and lay people attending the assembly an opportunity for open discussion on key issues facing Missouri, the nation and the world, features top Christian ministry leaders from throughout the state and nation.

The theme for the regional assembly is "Our Heritage and Destiny".

One of the work resolutions which the delegates will be considering will ask congregations to sensitize their members to the whole world hunger issue for the new world community in which we are living. It calls for the Missouri region to cooperate in the ecumenical event titled World Hunger Education Action Together (WHEAT), which is a national program.

Topics for the conference include addresses by Richard Marshall of Webster Groves, attorney and legal advisor for the Board of Higher Education of the Christian Church, on the subject, "Destiny of the Church"; Dr. Sam S. Langley, minister of First Christian Church at Columbia, speaking on "Yesterday–The Maker of Tomorrow"; Dr. Raymond E. Brown, of Indianapolis vice president and assistant secretary of the Board of Church Extension, discussing "Whatever Happened To The Ministry?"; and a Sunday worship service with a sermon by Dr. William Martin Smith of Indianapolis, president of the Christian Church pension fund, on "An Enlarged Perspective of the church."

Other Christian Church ministers appearing on the program will include:

Dr. Herbert P. Davis of Independence; Ronald L. Faust of Lake Ozark; Robert F. Gartman of Springfield; Dr. Perry E. Gresham of Bethany, W. Va.; Charles Hill of California, Mo.; Dr. W.W. Jones of Raytown; Albert L. Nirschl of New Bloomfield; James L. Pennington, Harry B. Spear, Dr. James I. Spainhower and Dr. Lester B. Rickman, president of the Christian Church in Missouri, all of Jefferson City; and Drs. Rhodes Thompson Jr. and W.A. Walsh and Miss Arla Elston of St. Louis.

A number of lay members from throughout the state will also appear on the program.

Redemption Song to redo 'Alleluia'

Redemption Song, a 12-member musical group from First Assembly of God Church, will present "Alleluia", a praise musical by Bill Gaither, in two performances next week--7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly and 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall. Members of the group include: Kneeling, from left, Max Teague, Russ Whitten, Bob Walters and Len Meyers, director. Standing, Joan Bixler, Peggy Teague, Jane Whitten, Jean Frala, Vicki Walters, Sharon Bryant, Judy Meyers and Sharon Savage.

Calvary pastor plans to resume radio program

The Rev. T. A. McDonough

The Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor of Calvary Assembly, 127 W. Trotter St., will resume his "Gospeltime" radio broadcast at 11 a.m. Monday on radio station KSIM.

The pastor will deal with many subjects of current interest in the religious field such as the Charismatic Movement and its effects on the church today. The program will also feature the music of The Musical Vanns, a nationally known evangelistic team from Toledo, Ohio, which will be at Calvary Assembly for a revival crusade beginning May 23. The crusade is expected to last at least three weeks.

Although founded only two years ago Calvary Assembly reportedly has achieved the largest full gospel interdenominational church in the Tri-state area, with 1976 attendance average standing at 312.

The "Gospeltime" broadcast will continue through The Musical Vanns' crusade and beyond as funds become available.

"Who has put wisdom in the inward parts?" (Job 38:36, Amplified Version)

PRAYER: O God, give us strength for our weakness, faith for our doubt, and courage to replace our despair. We pray as Christ our Savior has taught us. Amen.

'Alleluia' concerts planned

Redemption Song, a group of 12 adult singers from First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, under the direction of Len Meyers, associate pastor will present two performances next week of the praise musical, "Alleluia", written by Bill Gaither. The first concert will be performed at 7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly of God, and the second will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall.

The musical was presented by this group last May 17 and 18, and so many requests were received that another concert was presented the following weekend.

Next week's concerts were arranged after many requests to hear "Alleluia" again were received following Meyers' announcement of his resignation as associate pastor on Easter Sunday.

Members of Redemption Song are Joan Bixler of Canalou and Max Teague, Peggy Teague, Jane Whitten, Russ Whitten, Jean Frala, Vicki Walters, Bob Walters, Sharon Bryant, Judy Meyers, Meyers (director) and Sharon Savage of Sikeston. All 12 attend First Assembly and are members of the sanctuary choir.

The music includes: "Let's Just Praise the Lord;" "There's Just Something About that Name;" "King of Kings and Lord of Lords;" "Bethlehem, Gaililee, Gethsemane"; "God Gave a Song"; "The Longer I Serve Him"; "The Old Rugged Cross Made the Difference"; "Because He Lives"; "Something Beautiful"; "Get All Excited"; and "Alleluia".

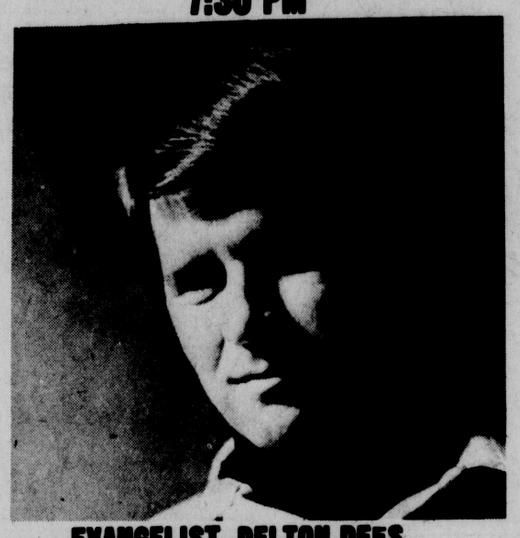

The music is interspersed with narratives by Meyers, Walters, Whitten, Don Castleberry, Charles Patterson Sr., Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Bryant. Also, special testimonies will be shared by Peggy Teague, the Rev. and Mrs. Loren Wooten and Nyman "Matt" Matthews.

Madrid church to host singers

Remnant, a singing group from Murphysboro, Ill., will be in New Madrid for weekend services at 7:30 tonight and Saturday night and 10 a.m. Sunday at Trinity Church, 200 S. Main St. Jesus music with a contemporary beat best describes performances by Remnant, a youth group formed in September 1971. Evangelist Don Gladden,who travels with the group, says their music is drawn from Andre Crouch, Good News Circle and other popular contemporary groups. The group has traveled extensively and recently recorded its first album, "Making It With Jesus", which features many of its own songs.

Meyers leaving post at First Assembly

Len Meyers

Len and Judy Meyers will be honored Sunday at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, as a tribute to Meyers' final Sunday as associate pastor of the church before they begin holding special meetings as evangelists.

The church will have a dinner (potluck style) in their honor during the noon hour Sunday. Then, at 6 p.m., Len and Judy will conduct their final service as associate pastors, with much special music, including choir favorites by request and a special concert by Mr. and Mrs. Meyers as they sing many of the songs they have written and arranged as solos and duets. Meyers then will deliver his farewell message.

Meyers announced his resignation to the church on Easter Sunday evening, at the conclusion of a contata presented by the choir.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my ministry here in Sikeston. We have never been so happy with a city, school system and reception of neighbors and businessmen as we have been with Sikeston," Meyers says. "Perhaps the Lord will allow us to headquarter here."

"I have enjoyed my position with First Assembly of God and working with the Rev. Loren Wooten (the pastor and my father-in-law). But we do feel the call of the Lord to be evangelists," says Meyers. "We simply could not continue to serve First Assembly and travel, too."

During their last week, Meyers will direct two performances of the musical, "Alleluia", by Bill Gaither. The group under his direction is Redemption Song, 12 adult singers ranging from 20 to 35 years in age. The concerts will be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly of God, and 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers will begin their ministry as full-time evangelists May 23 in revival meetings at First Assembly of God Church in Campbell.

Evangelistic Temple moves to Morehouse

The Evangelistic Temple Church, formerly located at 107 Sixth St., has moved to Bates Street in Morehouse, where the Rev. Edward Kinder, pastor, and his wife Katie have built a new church building.

The first services at the new location will be conducted Sunday at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The church will also have a Thursday service at 7 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Kinder said he wanted to express his thanks to the city of Morehouse for allowing the church to use the Community Building while the new building was under construction.

Gray Ridge church plans evangelistic crusade

GRAY RIDGE — An evangelistic crusade will begin Sunday night and continue through Saturday night at the Gray Ridge General Baptist Church. The services will start at 6 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The speaker will be the Rev. Rudolph Hickerson, pastor of Cedarview General Baptist Church at Granite City, Ill. The Rev. Mr. Hickerson has pastored churches and conducted many evangelistic meetings in the southeast Missouri area, and is known to many fundamental denominations.

The Rev. Jerry Hart, pastor, says special singing will be featured each evening.

Old-Fashioned Sunday set at Wolf Island

WOLF ISLAND — Old-Fashioned Day will be observed Sunday in an all-day service from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wolf Island Baptist Church.

Old-fashioned dress will be featured, and events of the day will include dinner at the church at noon, followed by an afternoon service and refreshments of homemade cake and ice cream. The Rev. Dave Fambrough, pastor of the Dorena Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker at the afternoon service. The Rev. Dallas Carpenter is pastor.

Singing event

A gospel singing program featuring the Happy Gospel Four from Grandin will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Temple of Faith General Baptist Church, 309 Smith St., the Rev. Raymond Myrick, pastor, has announced.

Full gospel meeting set

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

The guest speaker will be Elijah Browning, a Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship member from St. Louis who is a masonry subcontractor and a Baptist.

The meeting is open to men and women of all denominations.

Special services slated in Canalou

CANALOU — Special services at the Canalou Assembly of God Church this weekend will feature the Redemptionairs of Puxico. A gospel singing concert will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday, and the group will minister in song and sermon in Sunday services beginning at 9:45 a.m. and 7 p.m., the Rev. Terzah Perry, pastor, has announced.

Christian Church assembly begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Some 600 people will meet today through Sunday at the Ramada Inn for the 137th regional assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Missouri.

Principal speaker at the assembly will be Dr. Kenneth L. Teegarden of Indianapolis, Ind., general minister and president of the national body of Christian Churches. The topic of Dr. Teegarden's speech will be "Heritage Revisited—An Update on Destiny."

The Rev. Warren F. Chrisman of Dallas Tex., president elect-nominee of the Christian Church in Missouri, will be installed Saturday as regional minister.

The three-day conference, designed to give Christian Church ministers and lay people attending the assembly an opportunity for open discussion on key issues facing Missouri, the nation and the world, features top Christian ministry leaders from throughout the state and nation.

The theme for the regional assembly is "Our Heritage and Destiny".

One of the work resolutions which the delegates will be considering will ask congregations to sensitize their members to the whole world hunger issue for the new world community in which we are living. It calls for the Missouri region to cooperate in the ecumenical event titled World Hunger Education Action Together (WHEAT), which is a national program.

Topics for the conference include addresses by Richard Marshall of Webster Groves, attorney and legal advisor for the Board of Higher Education of the Christian Church, on the subject, "Destiny of the Church"; Dr. Sam S. Langley, minister of First Christian Church at Columbia, speaking on "Yesterday–The Maker of Tomorrow"; Dr. Raymond E. Brown, of Indianapolis vice president and assistant secretary of the Board of Church Extension, discussing "Whatever Happened To The Ministry?"; and a Sunday worship service with a sermon by Dr. William Martin Smith of Indianapolis, president of the Christian Church pension fund, on "An Enlarged Perspective of the church."

Other Christian Church ministers appearing on the program will include:

Dr. Herbert P. Davis of Independence; Ronald L. Faust of Lake Ozark; Robert F. Gartman of Springfield; Dr. Perry E. Gresham of Bethany, W. Va.; Charles Hill of California, Mo.; Dr. W.W. Jones of Raytown; Albert L. Nirschl of New Bloomfield; James L. Pennington, Harry B. Spear, Dr. James I. Spainhower and Dr. Lester B. Rickman, president of the Christian Church in Missouri, all of Jefferson City; and Drs. Rhodes Thompson Jr. and W.A. Walsh and Miss Arla Elston of St. Louis.

A number of lay members from throughout the state will also appear on the program.

Redemption Song to redo 'Alleluia'

Redemption Song, a 12-member musical group from First Assembly of God Church, will present "Alleluia", a praise musical by Bill Gaither, in two performances next week--7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly and 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall. Members of the group include: Kneeling, from left, Max Teague, Russ Whitten, Bob Walters and Len Meyers, director. Standing, Joan Bixler, Peggy Teague, Jane Whitten, Jean Frala, Vicki Walters, Sharon Bryant, Judy Meyers and Sharon Savage.

Calvary pastor plans to resume radio program

The Rev. T. A. McDonough

The Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor of Calvary Assembly, 127 W. Trotter St., will resume his "Gospeltime" radio broadcast at 11 a.m. Monday on radio station KSIM.

The pastor will deal with many subjects of current interest in the religious field such as the Charismatic Movement and its effects on the church today. The program will also feature the music of The Musical Vanns, a nationally known evangelistic team from Toledo, Ohio, which will be at Calvary Assembly for a revival crusade beginning May 23. The crusade is expected to last at least three weeks.

Although founded only two years ago Calvary Assembly reportedly has achieved the largest full gospel interdenominational church in the Tri-state area, with 1976 attendance average standing at 312.

The "Gospeltime" broadcast will continue through The Musical Vanns' crusade and beyond as funds become available.

"Who has put wisdom in the inward parts?" (Job 38:36, Amplified Version)

PRAYER: O God, give us strength for our weakness, faith for our doubt, and courage to replace our despair. We pray as Christ our Savior has taught us. Amen.

'Alleluia' concerts planned

Redemption Song, a group of 12 adult singers from First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, under the direction of Len Meyers, associate pastor will present two performances next week of the praise musical, "Alleluia", written by Bill Gaither. The first concert will be performed at 7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly of God, and the second will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall.

The musical was presented by this group last May 17 and 18, and so many requests were received that another concert was presented the following weekend.

Next week's concerts were arranged after many requests to hear "Alleluia" again were received following Meyers' announcement of his resignation as associate pastor on Easter Sunday.

Members of Redemption Song are Joan Bixler of Canalou and Max Teague, Peggy Teague, Jane Whitten, Russ Whitten, Jean Frala, Vicki Walters, Bob Walters, Sharon Bryant, Judy Meyers, Meyers (director) and Sharon Savage of Sikeston. All 12 attend First Assembly and are members of the sanctuary choir.

The music includes: "Let's Just Praise the Lord;" "There's Just Something About that Name;" "King of Kings and Lord of Lords;" "Bethlehem, Gaililee, Gethsemane"; "God Gave a Song"; "The Longer I Serve Him"; "The Old Rugged Cross Made the Difference"; "Because He Lives"; "Something Beautiful"; "Get All Excited"; and "Alleuluia".

The music is interspersed with narratives by Meyers, Walters, Whitten, Don Castleberry, Charles Patterson Sr., Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Bryant. Also, special testimonies will be shared by Peggy Teague, the Rev. and Mrs. Loren Wooten and Nyman "Matt" Matthews.

Singing event

A gospel singing program featuring the Happy Gospel Four from Grandin will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Temple of Faith General Baptist Church, 309 Smith St., the Rev. Raymond Myrick, pastor, has announced.

Madrid church to host singers

Remnant, a singing group from Murphysboro, Ill., will be in New Madrid for weekend services at 7:30 tonight and Saturday night and 10 a.m. Sunday at Trinity Church, 200 S. Main St. Jesus music with a contemporary beat best describes performances by Remnant, a youth group formed in September 1971. Evangelist Don Gladden,who travels with the group, says their music is drawn from Andre Crouch, Good News Circle and other popular contemporary groups. The group has traveled extensively and recently recorded its first album, "Making It With Jesus", which features many of its own songs.

Meyers leaving post at First Assembly

Len Meyers

Len and Judy Meyers will be honored Sunday at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, as a tribute to Meyers' final Sunday as associate pastor of the church before they begin holding special meetings as evangelists.

The church will have a dinner (potluck style) in their honor during the noon hour Sunday. Then, at 6 p.m., Len and Judy will conduct their final service as associate pastors, with much special music, including choir favorites by request and a special concert by Mr. and Mrs. Meyers as they sing many of the songs they have written and arranged as solos and duets. Meyers then will deliver his farewell message.

Meyers announced his resignation to the church on Easter Sunday evening, at the conclusion of a contata presented by the choir.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my ministry here in Sikeston. We have never been so happy with a city, school system and reception of neighbors and businessmen as we have been with Sikeston," Meyers says. "Perhaps the Lord will allow us to headquarter here."

"I have enjoyed my position with First Assembly of God and working with the Rev. Loren Wooten (the pastor and my father-in-law). But we do feel the call of the Lord to be evangelists," says Meyers. "We simply could not continue to serve First Assembly and travel, too."

During their last week, Meyers will direct two performances of the musical, "Alleluia", by Bill Gaither. The group under his direction is Redemption Song, 12 adult singers ranging from 20 to 35 years in age. The concerts will be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday at First Assembly of God, and 7 p.m. Friday at Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers will begin their ministry as full-time evangelists May 23 in revival meetings at First Assembly of God Church in Campbell.

Evangelistic Temple moves to Morehouse

The Evangelistic Temple Church, formerly located at 107 Sixth St., has moved to Bates Street in Morehouse, where the Rev. Edward Kinder, pastor, and his wife Katie have built a new church building.

The first services at the new location will be conducted Sunday at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The church will also have a Thursday service at 7 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Kinder said he wanted to express his thanks to the city of Morehouse for allowing the church to use the Community Building while the new building was under construction.

Gray Ridge church plans evangelistic crusade

GRAY RIDGE — An evangelistic crusade will begin Sunday night and continue through Saturday night at the Gray Ridge General Baptist Church. The services will start at 6 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The speaker will be the Rev. Rudolph Hickerson, pastor of Cedarview General Baptist Church at Granite City, Ill. The Rev. Mr. Hickerson has pastored churches and conducted many evangelistic meetings in the southeast Missouri area, and is known to many fundamental denominations.

The Rev. Jerry Hart, pastor, says special singing will be featured each evening.

Old-Fashioned Sunday set at Wolf Island

WOLF ISLAND — Old-Fashioned Day will be observed Sunday in an all-day service from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wolf Island Baptist Church.

Old-fashioned dress will be featured, and events of the day will include dinner at the church at noon, followed by an afternoon service and refreshments of homemade cake and ice cream. The Rev. Dave Fambrough, pastor of the Dorena Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker at the afternoon service. The Rev. Dallas Carpenter is pastor.

Full gospel meeting set

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

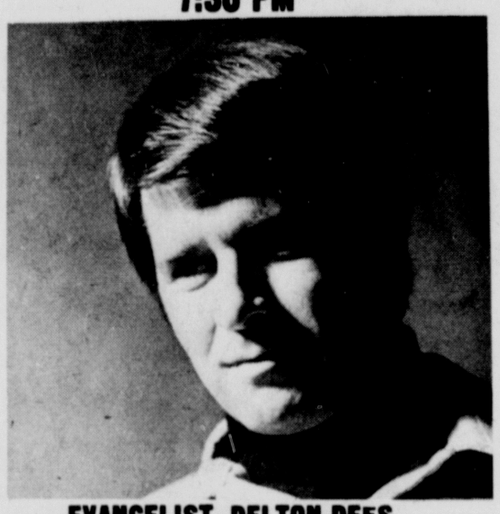

The guest speaker will be Elijah Browning, a Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship member from St. Louis who is a masonry subcontractor and a Baptist.

The meeting is open to men and women of all denominations.

Special services slated in Canalou

CANALOU — Special services at the Canalou Assembly of God Church this weekend will feature the Redemptionairs of Puxico. A gospel singing concert will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday, and the group will minister in song and sermon in Sunday services beginning at 9:45 a.m. and 7 p.m., the Rev. 1 In Memoriam

Hours of Sadness often came over us
Tears of silence often flow
Love will always keep you near us,
Though you left us two years ago.

God gave us strength to see you go,
Courage to bear the blow,
But how it hurt to lose you
No one will even know.

In Loving Memory of Mavis Riley

1. In Memoriam

Hours of Sadness often came over us
Tears of silence often flow
Love will always keep you near us,
Though you left us two years ago.

God gave us strength to see you go,
Courage to bear the blow,
But how it hurt to lose you
No one will even know.

In Loving Memory of Mavis Riley
